Rights Bill Is Restricted In Major Dixie Victory

RALPH McGILL

They Sustained Uncle Alf's Son

An all-white jury in east Tennessee's city of Clinton, one member of which was an outspoken segregationist, has sustained with a guilty verdict charges of contempt against seven defendants in U.S. District Court of Judge Robert Love Taylor.

One of the seven found guilty was rabble-rouser John Kasper, whose frenetic and hypnotic rhythm of hate and misrepresentation had brought on the riots in Clinton where a handful of Negro children had been integrated in the schools.

The verdict reportedly stunned the defense which had not argued much law, but had demanded the upholding of their version of Southern traditions.

Yet, it was not too surprising. After all, it was Uncle Alf Taylor's son, and Bob Taylor's nephew, who was the judge. And as everyone in east Tennessee knows, the Taylors always have done their duty. Not only that, but in east Tennessee there runs a tradition of respect for law, more especially federal law. The region remained largely loyal to the Union during the War Between the States. There is almost a reverence for the federal courts.

One Juror

One of the jurors, for example, after having been accepted by the government attorneys, was revealed by defense questioning to be a strong believer in maintaining segregation. Yet, this juror rejected the irrelevant appeals and stuck to the law.

The verdict will almost certainly be helpful to the South's campaign to have jury trials included in the civil rights voting bill, which seems likely to pass stripped of the ambiguously dangerous section three. Sen. Richard B. Russell, leader of the Dixie strategists, therefore, has hailed the Clinton verdict as vindicating the integrity of Southern juries. But defense attorneys angrily predicted that while such verdicts might happen in east Tennessee they would not occur in the Deep South. Georgia's Gov. Griffin seemed to disagree with Sen. Russell, terming the verdict a "distinct threat."

But whatever it may turn out to be, it was east Tennessee's decision on a court order issued by Uncle Alf's son. And that feeling for the law, too, is a tradition which runs through the Cumberland Mountains, so long as it doesn't touch a man's right to use his corn as he pleases. It is a tradition which is like a bright, sturdy thread, spun in a cabin to the sound of a fiddle tune.

Judge Robert Love Taylor is the son of a Republican governor of Tennessee, and is named for a Democratic governor and United States senator . . . his uncle, Robert Love Taylor.

The Democrat

Bob Taylor, the Democrat, was the laughing, fiddling, story-telling man, a mountain troubadour. Uncle Alf was the quiet, serious man. They campaigned for the governorship together—riding in the family buggy. And Democrat Bob Taylor won. Years later, Uncle Alf, a mighty fox hunter, was the people's choice.

That first campaign, when both were young, was called "The War of the Roses." Old Mother Taylor pinned a red rose on one and a white one on the other and sternly ordered them never to forget they were brothers.

Darkness caught them one night and they were put up at a mountain cabin. Bob, the practical joker, slipped early out of bed and made a fire in the kitchen stove. He went to the barn and milked the scrawny cow. He had coffee made when the farmer and his wife awoke at 4 a.m.

"Be quiet, please," said Bob. "Don't wake my brother. He likes to sleep late and have his breakfast in bed."

Bob nodded.

"Well," said the mountain man, deeply pained, "I never thought I'd vote for no Democrat, but damned if I can bring myself to vote for a feller that eats in bed."

Bob Taylor delighted in that sort of trick. He was, in fact, the late sleeper, the fiddle player who could, and did, win votes by playing his fiddle during that campaign, making the rafters hum in many a lonely cabin.

The man on the bench at Clinton was Uncle Alf's son, named for brother Bob.

LADY IN A TANK—CAMP DRUM, N.J., July 24—Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and his wife toured the N.J. National Guard units in training here. They visited the tank firing range for a first-hand report on the two-week training of the nearly 5,000 Jersey guardsmen, and Mrs. Meyner climbed into a tank. She reported the passage to the interior was "rather uncomfortable."

'Segregation Bugaboo' Hits School Bond Sales

By BRUCE GALPHIN

The "bugaboo of segregation" is hindering efforts to sell $12 millions worth of bonds for the state's university system building program, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher declared Wednesday.

Investment officers of insurance companies are "afraid of controversial issues," he explained.

"To my mind the argument is ridiculous, because we're going to use the buildings regardless," Thrasher said. But he reported investors have been scared by rumors that segregation troubles might force closing the buildings.

The University System Building Authority withdrew a $12 million bond offer about 60 days ago after experts advised there might not be any bidders, Thrasher said.

Gov. Griffin complained at a press conference earlier this week that the proposed science center at Athens could not be completed until it received $3.5 million from the bond issue. Griffin already has allotted almost $8 million to the center from surplus funds.

Thrasher, who is chairman of the University System Building Authority, said Wednesday that "maybe we could sell them if we would pay the legal maximum of 4.5 per cent." But he felt that figure was too high.

The auditor agreed that building costs are increasing, but he doubted the savings involved in building now would offset paying a 4.5 per cent interest rate for 20 years.

Griffin has urged that funds of the Teacher Retirement System be invested in the university bonds.

The governor added that other bidders might be forced to cut their bids if the retirement system publicly announced it would offer some figure in the neighborhood of 4.25 per cent.

However, Thrasher said Wednesday he doubts the retirement system board would go along with such a plan.

Road Projects Crippled by Cement Tieup

The nationwide cement workers' strike has seriously affected Georgia's highway program and some large-scale building projects.

Work has been suspended on some Atlanta to Gainesville and Atlanta to Athens highway projects and on the new $9 million State Farmers Market in Atlanta.

"There is no consistent pattern," said one construction company official. "Some companies who get their concrete from operating plants are having no trouble; others whose supply has been cut off because of a struck plant are running into delays."

State Highway Engineer M. L. Shadburn said the highway program is "seriously affected" by the strike.

"And it's getting worse by the hour," Shadburn said. "I've already had reports of several small projects closing down."

The cement shortage has forced suspension of bridge and culvert building for the new Atlanta-Gainesville highway in Gwinnett County, Shadburn said. The highway is an extension of the Atlanta expressway system and is part of the new interstate highway program.

Shadburn reported that a curb-

House Snips Strings Off School Aid

Bans Interference By Washington

WASHINGTON, July 24 (UP)—The House voted today to forbid any form of federal interference in public school education under the proposed $1,500,000,000 federal school aid program.

The amendment, approved by voice vote, would forbid the government to exercise any control over local school personnel, school books, school curriculum or school administrative policies.

The sponsor, Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex), told the House that many people have a "very real fear" that the proposed school construction bill could become a "vehicle for federal domination of our schools."

Other House action on Page Two.

He said Congress should expressly state in the preamble of the bill that it "does not intend to provide or permit federal control of our schools."

The House earlier completed formal debate on the proposed building program under which the government would spend 300 million dollars for each of the next five years to help the states build schools.

But the measure was given only a slight chance of passing the House. Democratic supporters felt that President Eisenhower had given the measure its "death blow" by telling his legislative lieutenants that he was not entirely satisfied with it.

Under Scrivner's plan, the fed-

Cost of Living Jumps to a New Record

WASHINGTON, July 24 — The cost of living rose by half of one per cent in June to another record high, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

The monthly increase was one of the largest since the "new inflation" began 16 months ago. Since March of last year, prices have gone up in every month but one, for a total of 4.8 per cent during that period. This means the dollar today has lost nearly five cents of its purchasing power compared with early last year.

Three-fourths of the June increase was attributable to higher food prices—a rise that was largely seasonal. But price analysts were particularly discouraged by a slight increase in the price of goods other than food. These prices had turned down in May after a steady rise, and there was some hope that a permanent change in direction had come about.

Sultan of Muscat and Oman

British Jets Rake Rebels In Oman

MANAMA, Bahrein, July 24 (AP)—British jet warplanes attacked rebel tribesmen of Oman today with rockets and machinegun fire.

An official announcement in this Persian Gulf oil center said RAF jets based at Sharja, in Oman, knocked down the walls of Ft. Izki in the Wadi Halfin area.

The RAF flew 12 sorties against the rebels threatening the throne of the pro-British Sultan of Muscat and Oman.

Targets for tomorrow, informants said, will include the rebel-held fort at Nizwa, ancient capital of Oman.

Unofficial reports earlier said the official announcement of the attack had been deferred by the British until they could assess photos showing the results of the attacks.

Although London officials said the use of ground troops was not planned, two companies of the Cameronian Rifles, veteran desert campaign troops, arrived at the RAF Sharja base from Kenya late today. They were fully equipped for desert action.

In Cairo, rebel spokesmen claimed that their forces hold most of the interior and that the British-officered army of the Sultan is losing men by desertion to the rebels.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd announced in London that British action would be confined to air strikes to discourage the rebels and prevent them from receiving arms from outside sources.

Poker Is No Gamble, Says Argentine Judge

Dr. Jose Maria Ragucci ordered freedom for members of an athletic club arrested on gambling charges.

"The fact that the skill of a player and a technique in eliminating a good deal of the improbable are important factors, and the calculating abilities of the players is a preponderant element of the game, eliminates it from those known as games of chance," the judge declared.

Senate Cuts Measure to Voting Issue

18 Republicans Desert President

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 24—Southern forces won a major victory today as the Senate voted, 52 to 38, to limit the administration's Civil Rights Bill to a protection of voting rights.

The Senate adopted an amendment to strike from the bill most of Part 3, which would have given the attorney general sweeping court injunctive powers to enforce all types of civil rights.

This non-South, bipartisan amendment was introduced by Senators Anderson (D-NM), and Aiken (R-Vt), and supported by Sen. Case (R-SD), as a cosponsor.

IKE NOT AVAILABLE

There was no immediate reaction from the President. Both Eisenhower and his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, were out playing golf when the Senate voted.

There had been some controversy over the President's exact stand on the deleted section, although he gave the over-all bill a high priority.

Immediately after the vote, the Senate moved toward consideration of the Southern-backed jury trial amendment to the remaining voting rights section of the bill.

NEW SECTION

This amendment actually would add a new section to the bill and provide that a defendant in a criminal contempt case involving voting rights could get a jury trial if he demands it.

Johnson's move to take up the second most controversial issue in the bill was seen as a step to get that question resolved as soon as possible and speed final action on the bill itself. A vote was not expected before Thursday, however.

Perhaps significantly, majority leader Johnson said he believes a majority of the Senate will insist on the right to trial by jury.

VOICE CONFIDENCE

Sen. Ervin (D-NC), flatly predicted that "we'll get a jury trial," and Sen. Stennis (D-Miss), also voiced confidence of getting such an amendment. Sen. Thurmond (D-SC), said he thought so, too, but forecast a closer vote than on the Anderson-Aiken-Case amendment.

But Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland (Calif), who is spearheading the Senate drive for the rights bill, has predicted that the Senate would vote down any attempt to write a jury trial guarantee into the legislation.

Georgia's Sen. Russell, who a few weeks ago didn't think that today's Southern victory was possible, had this to say about it:

"Today's vote was a great victory for real civil rights and local self-government. It eliminated un-

State Padlocks Whisky Suppliers

In an unprecedented move, Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams Wednesday night ordered padlocking of "all liquor wholesale houses in Georgia."

Williams said he was shutting down the liquor houses for an investigation of "violation of alcohol control laws and regulations." Thirty-four wholesale houses located in seven Georgia cities are affected. Whether his action would result in a whisky shortage in wet counties was not known early Thursday.

LOCKS WAREHOUSES

Commissioner T. V. Williams

Asked when the padlocked establishments might be reopened, Williams said, "That will have to be determined later. There are some that probably never will be reopened.

"There will not be any opened until I am convinced that each one individually will follow the laws and regulations."

CITES "GIMMICKS"

Williams said the violations included "giving away gimmicks to try to promote sales, selling whisky on credit, and cutthroat prices and competition."

A wholesaler in Atlanta told The Constitution, "Nobody seems to know what it's all about."

Thad Holt, the wholesaler, said, "We hope to arrange for an early meeting with the revenue commissioner to find out what is happening."

SHORTAGE SEEN

Holt said retail liquor stores reorder once or twice a week and that, if the wholesale houses remain closed for any length of time, "it would not be long before consumers would find it difficult to buy their favorite brands."

Williams said the action was not taken "all of a sudden" and that no liquor house in the state was "clear of suspicion."

"We've been investigating on this thing for a couple of months to try to determine the extent of the violations."

To his knowledge, Williams said, this is the first time a Georgia revenue commissioner has ordered a sweeping "lockup" of every wholesale house in the state.

His agents collected considerable evidence, he said, leading him to feel the step was "necessary to get this operation under control."

ISSUES ORDER

He said orders were issued Wednesday afternoon padlocking all wholesale establishments. The revenue commissioner said his orders called for an "enforcement officer to be at every wholesaler in Georgia when they open up Thursday morning."

Williams reported that his agents found some Savannah wholesalers were loading out whisky Wednesday night, apparently having gotten wind of the order.

Williams said 34 wholesale houses throughout the state are affected by his order. He listed them: Atlanta, 10; Augusta, 6; Savannah, 5; Macon, 5; Columbus, 2; Albany, 5, and Brunswick 1.

W. Virginia Mayor Duels A Gunman

HUNTINGTON, W.Va., July 25 (AP)—Mayor Eugene Willis, recently granted a pistol permit after repeated threats on his life, was shot at tonight as he drove into his driveway. Police said he returned the fire.

The bullet whizzed past the mayor's head and went through the glass in the door on the right side of his car, police said.

TELEPHONE CALLS

In obtaining the pistol permit from Circuit Judge John W. Hereford, Friday, the mayor signed affidavits that his life and harm to his family had been threatened.

All the threats have been made by anonymous callers on the telephone to the mayor, members of his family or to the funeral home which he operates.

The mayor has said he knows of no reason for the calls.

Willis, a Republican, took office last January.

Neither he nor his administration have been involved in any major controversies in the nearly seven months he has been mayor.

THREE WARNINGS

The last three threatening phone calls came to his funeral home last night.

Asked to comment on what might have prompted the calls, Willis replied: "I wish I knew."

He said that since he took office early last January, he personally has received "15 or so" telephone threats, all of which he believed to have come from one man and one woman.

Red Skelton, Wife Argue in Rome, Interrupting Tour for Stricken Son

The hassle climaxed a long series of rows between Skelton and his wife, Georgia, that marred a family trip designed to show the sights of the world to their 9-year-old son Richard, suffering from leukemia.

Richard himself was in good condition today. He spent the last 48 hours in bed after a stomach upset Monday. But Rome blood specialist Angelo de Gugielmo told the Skeltons in a reporter's presence that their son's blood was "practically normal."

The family squabble broke out when the couple returned to their Rome hotel room after lunch to go to Naples. They planned to make the trip in a Volkswagen bus Skelton purchased for $2,400.

It has been the subject of a running argument between Skelton and his wife. He wanted to tour Europe in it. She was afraid of his driving over the twisting, narrow European roads.

When Skelton could not find the legal papers for the bus, he broke into a rage. After a long argument with his wife over who had mislaid it, he exploded.

"That's it," he said. "I'm through. I've had it. We're going home tonight. I'm sick of everyone fouling things up on this trip. We're going back."

He turned to his hotel manager, who was in his suite helping him pack for Naples, and ordered him to book four seats on the first plane to New York.

One hour later the family was on their way to Rome's Ciampino Airport.

(However, on arrival in Barcelona, indications were that the Skeltons may have changed their minds and would visit Paris, London and Dublin before returning to the United States.)

The family's two months of traveling started in the United States. Highlights of the American half of their junket was a tour of the Senate with Vice President Nixon acting as guide.

Dallas, Miami Set Back In Fight To Segregate

By the Associated Press

Two of the South's largest public school systems—at Dallas, Tex., and Miami, Fla.—have received judiciary setbacks in their fight to maintain segregated schools

At New Orleans, the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has ordered Dallas to integrate its schools, but set no time limit.

The court in another case told a federal district judge he would have to consider the suit of a group of Negroes seeking to enter white schools in Miami.

In the Dallas case, the court reversed a decision by 87-year-old U.S. District Judge William H. Atwell, who had dismissed the Negroes' suit so that "the school board may have ample time, as it appears to be doing, to work out this problem."

Judge Richard T. Rives, who wrote the decision of the appeals court, said he had noted the good faith of the Dallas school board but that faith alone, without actual deeds, was not enought.

Attorneys for the Dallas Negroes had asked that the schools be desegregated with "all deliberate speed."

Said Rives: "At least to that much they are certainly entitled."

Supt. L. A. Roberts said the other school districts in Dallas

Bulganin Rips West In Arms-Cut Impasse

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, July 24—The Soviet Union told the western powers tonight that linking a suspension of nuclear tests to the ban on making fissionable materials for nuclear weapons condemns the five-power talks on a cessation of tests.

Hope for nuclear disarmament from the talks dwindled almost to the vanishing point as a result of Premier Bulganin's abrasive attack upon the Western position in the U.N. Subcommittee on Disarmament.

Officials of the United States and British delegations declared they were not prepared to accept any separation of test suspension and weapons production in their quest for agreement on first steps toward disarmament.

This position was made clear by Selwyn Lloyd, British foreign secretary, in a speech to the House of Commons yesterday. He reinforced the view made public by Secretary of State Dulles and Harold E. Stassen, chief United States delegate to the disarmament talks, in a number of declarations on the arms talks.

Since neither the United States nor the United Kingdom, the world's two other nuclear powers, is prepared to accept Soviet proposals for an independent cessation of the tests, officials here feel there is little room for negotiations on the central issue of the disarmament talks.

Bulganin further reduced the prospects of agreement by charging that the West was sabotaging the talks by tying disarmament issues to the unification of Germany. He suggested a "deal" had been made to misuse the arms talks to further the political ambitions of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of the federal republic.

6,000-WORD LETTER

The only positive proposal by the Soviet premier was that America, Russia and the nations of Europe agree to ban military and economic aid to any state violating European peace irrespective of treaty obligations.

This attack on the North Atlantic Treaty organization appeared in a 6,000-word letter from Bulganin to British Prime Minister Macmillan. The foreign office made public tonight a translation of the letter, which was received Monday.

The Soviet premier also suggested that U.S. and European nations agree not to give military or economic assistance "to any state violating the peace of Europe irrespective of whether they have any obligations as ally to the aggressor or not."

ANOTHER WARNING

Bulganin's advocacy of a European security treaty was coupled with another veiled warning. He asked if Britain's security would be strengthened if West Germany had a "network of atomic installations and stocks of atomic and nuclear bombs?"

Bulganin gave no indication that the Soviet Union was willing to help ease the tension in the Middle East. Instead, his letter attacked Macmillan for not having accepted a Soviet proposal that the major powers condemn the use of force in the area and for having referred such questions to the United Nations.

House Votes 33.7 Billion Defense Bill

WASHINGTON, July 24 (UP)—The House gave its final approval to a compromise $33,759,850,000 defense money bill today despite a Republican protest that President Eisenhower's requests were cut "too deep."

The objection was voiced by Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Mass), senior Republican on the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee and a member of the Joint House-Senate Conference Committee which hammered out the compromise.

WANTED DEEPER CUT

But another Republican, Rep. Errett P. Scrivner (Kan), said Congress would have been justified in trimming another 250 million to 300 million dollars from the measure. A Democratic expert added that the administration may not even spend all the funds voted.

The measure, largest money bill of the session, cleared the House by voice vote. It now goes to the Senate where action is uncertain because of the three-weeks-old civil rights battle.

The total provided by the compromise was $2,368,150,000 shy of the $36,128,000,000 originally requested by Eisenhower. It was $197,125,000 more than the House originally voted but $774,379,000 below the Senate figure.

BLAMES ADMINISTRATION

The Senate negotiators were prepared to fight for a much larger restoration. But they complained the administration cut the ground out from under them by sending the conference group two letters saying defense money needs would be less than expected.

Wigglesworth said the compromise figure represented a "realistic reduction" of about 900 million dollars in the President's request. He said the rest of the slash consisted of bookkeeping transactions and fund juggling.

CUT IN PLANES

But he added that "I regret the cuts were as deep as they are." Wigglesworth said, for example, that the Navy now will be able to order only 1,000 planes this year instead of the 1,200 previously programmed.

But Scrivner said the cuts reflected the administration's decision to reduce the armed forces by 100,000 by next January. It was in this connection that he said Congress would have been justified in making even deeper cuts.

3 Ask House To Probe Ban on 'Old Black Joe'

WASHINGTON, July 24 (UP)—Three southerners today demanded that Congress investigate radio and television "censorship" of songs to delete terms objectionable to Negroes and other minority groups.

Rep. John C. Watts (D-Ky.) introduced a bill in the House to direct the House Commerce Committee to investigate the "arbitrary censorship" of songs by the networks.

Watts said Reps. Robert L.F. Sikes and Dr. R. (Billy) Matthews Florida Democrats who have protested radio and TV changes in the works of Stephen Foster, were sponsoring similar bills.

Sikes complained that new network rules forced the revision of Foster classics to delete terms like "darkies, massa, and Old Black Joe." Foster wrote the state songs of both Florida and Kentucky—"Way Down Upon the Swanee River" and "My Old Kentucky Home."

Watts' bill said the networks were banning terms "objectionable to minority groups in songs traditional and part of the wealth of original literature and music in the United States.

DANGEROUS PRECEDENT

"The establishment of such a policy creats a grave and dangerous precedent permitting small controlling groups of large networks to censor news, literary music, and art material transmitted over government-licensed and monopolistic media of communication."

The bill directs the House Commerce Committee to determine the scope of the policy, whether it violates the Constitution, and whether the Federal Communications Commission has power to "prohibit such arbitrary censorship."

MARGARET MITCHELL

Watts said the policy could be made to apply to the literary works of Margaret Mitchell, William Faulkner, Mark Twain and Harriet Beecher Stowe and even to musicals like "Damn Yankee," and "The King and I."

Watts said the practice "suggests strongly the type of action taken by communistic Russia in its suppression of certain styles of literary writing.

Crowd Ebbs But Graham Is Unshaken

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP) — For the second night in a row, Billy Graham drew a relatively small crowd to Madison Square Garden tonight. But the evangelist indicated he wasn't discouraged.

An estimated 14,500 persons turned out, 500 less than last night's attendance. Graham's smallest crowd to date in his crusade, now entering its 11th week, was 13,500 on May 16, the second day of the revival.

But, the evangelist said, the decision Friday to extend the revival until Aug. 10 hadn't had enough time to be spread.

Graham's sermon tonight was devoted to the evils of self-righteousness and pride.

"God says no proud or self-righteous man can ever enter heaven," the evangelist said.

"You'll never walk into heaven with your head reared back in a show of pride. You must come to God in humility and self-effacement in admission of your sins," Graham said.

At Graham's call, 349 persons came forward to "make decisions for Christ," boosting the over-all total of such decisions to 37,811.

Democratic Canyon Bill Is Defeated

House Committee Kills High Dam

WASHINGTON, July 24 (UP)—The House Interior Committee snuffed out the last chance for a high federal dam at Hells Canyon today by voting 16 to 14 to kill legislation which would have authorized the hotly-disputed project.

The vote, anticipated for three weeks, came on a motion to concur in the decision of the Irrigation and Reclamation subcommittee a month ago to knock out the vital enacting clause of the bill.

Rep. Gracie Pfost (D-Idaho), who sponsored the bill, said that in killing the high dam the committee was "strangling the lifeblood of the Pacific Northwest."

The bill would have authorized federal construction of a high dam on the Hells Canyon reach of the Snake River — the deepest river gorge in North America — between Idaho and Oregon.

The Federal Power Commission, with administration backing, has authorized the Idaho Power Co. to build three low dams on the Snake, two which already are under construction.

Mrs. Pfost predicted that Idaho Power "will never fully develop the water resources that are our God-given right." She said that in allowing the company to go ahead with construction "we are giving Idaho Power Co. The Snake River and paying them for taking it."

Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore) said that killing the legislation would give Idaho Power "an economic stranglehold" on the Northwest.

Fourteen Republicans and two Southern Democrats, Reps. James A. Haley (Fla.) and George A. Shuford (NC), cast the votes that killed the project. All the pro-dam votes were cast by Democrats.

The Senate passed a bill calling for a high Hells Canyon dam on June 21. But it, and other similar measures, were given no chance of House passage.

Hungary's Reds Admit Roundup Of 40 'Spy' Cells

BUDAPEST, July 24 (AP) — Hungary's Interior Minister Bela Biszku confirmed today week-old rumors of mass arrests in the capital and throughout the country.

Biszku told a workers meeting that the country's police had unmasked nearly 40 "spy" groups and had struck a decisive blow at the leadership of a counterrevolutionary organization.

He said the underground groups sought to cause a new flareup in September when the U.N. Assembly begins to debate a report on Soviet intervention in Hungary's rebellion last fall.

Estimates a week ago put the number of those jailed at more than 500.

Sheppard Counsel To Quiz Wedler, 'The Type I Think Killed Marilyn'

DELAND, Fla., July 24 (UP)—An attorney for Dr. Samuel Sheppard headed for Florida today to question Donald Joseph Wedler, whom he described as the type of man "I always thought killed Marilyn Sheppard."

William J. Corrigan, who defended Sheppard in 1954, picked up the pieces in the 10-day-old Wedler case just as it seemed the 23-year-old convict would be forgotten along with the other 24 persons who have "confessed" to the murder.

A merchant seaman who turned up as a "mystery witness" in the case called off plans to fly here to confirm the identity of Wedler as the man with the bloody hands who picked him up on the night of the slaying.

The seaman, Ernest J. Kolofolias, 32, looked at two photographs of Wedler and said, "He is the man or his twin brother." Corrigan had planned to pay Kolofolias' expenses here from Waterloo, Iowa, but the attorney later withdrew his offer and said Kolofolias' identification "means nothing to me."

Sheppard's hopes of being freed from a life sentence through Wedler's confession all but vanished yesterday when three Cleveland officials branded the convict's story a hoax. The three authorities, headed by Cuyahoga County Coroner Dr. Samuel R. Gerber, had helped convict Sheppard.

Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert of Ohio, one of Sheppard's attorneys, said he did not think Gerber and the officials competent to express an opinion on Wedler's confession. He said they were "all convinced only two hours after Mrs. Sheppard died that her husband killed her."

With Herbert in London, Corrigan decided to drive to Florida to determine if Wedler's story is as phony as Gerber claims. He left Cleveland Wednesday morning.

"I am going to take my time and check out every angle of Wedler's story," Corrigan said before leaving Ohio. "He's the type of man I always thought killed Marilyn Sheppard."

Kolofolias said mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner telephoned him from New York to stay in contact with him.

"He told me to sit back in my chair and try to remember every little incident," Kolofolias said.

Gardner's Court of Last Resort threw the case wide open last week when lie detector expert Alex Gregory announced that Wedler was telling the truth in his confession. The governor of Ohio consented to a lie detector test for Sheppard on the basis of Gregory's report but later revoked his order.

Gardner then dropped the case in a huff but indicated by contacting Kolofolias that he might continue his investigation.

The merchant seaman said in calling off the trip that "I want this thing to die." He also stuck to his identification of Wedler.

FOLLOWED WOMEN VICTIMS FROM CAFE

Waitress Links Suspect to Killing Of Trucker and 2 Young Wives

CARLSBAD, N.M., July 24 (AP)—Police tonight were questioning a 35-year-old man, arrested with a bloodstained shirt, in the pistol slaying yesterday of a truck-driver and two women.

Carlsbad police identified the man only as a "Jack Smith" with no known address.

They said he had been "positively identified" as the man who followed two women, later slain, from a Carlsbad bus station a few hours before they and the truck driver were shot down near Hobbs, N.M.

Officers said Smith was driving an older model Chrysler with California plates which answered the description of a car seen speeding east on the Hobbs highway shortly before the truck-driver's body was discovered.

Smith was arrested yesterday on a charge of vagrancy and had been jailed overnight in Carlsbad.

The victims, Mrs. Dorothy Fern Gibson and Mrs. Barbara Ann Lemmons, both 23, of Hobbs, stopped at the bus depot for coffee after dropping off a friend, Hoyt Lynch. They had driven Lynch from Hobbs to Carlsbad, about 65 miles.

The women's bodies were discovered at midmorning on a deserted oil field road about 29 miles from Cantrell's body. All three had been killed with a .22-caliber weapon.

The man was sitting two booths from them. They did not appear to be acquainted with him, nor did they show any interest in him.

He, however, seemed extremely interested in the two women and several times turned to stare at thm, Mrs. Trevino said.

Today, Sheriff Jewell McAdoo said Cantrell may have stopped to assist the women upon seeing them fight an attacker.

McAdoo theorized the women had started to fix the flat themselves. The killer, driving a second car, then came upon them.

Fulton Vows Battle To Keep Bond

Fulton County will continue to fight the refunding of a $15,000 cash bond forfeited in 1945 by a convicted lottery operator, it was learned Wednesday.

County attorney Harold Sheats said an attorney in the case had advised him the money would not be accepted without payment of interest. The interest now amounts to at least $10,000.

Sheats and court officials had decided earlier that they would refund the money and settle the long-pending court dispute over it if it could be refunded without payment of interest.

The attorney said Wednesday, however, he had been notified by Maj. Gen. George G. Finch of Warner Robins, who formerly was an attorney involved in the case, that the money would not be accepted without interest.

The money is a cash bond which Fred Martin, 57, of Jonesboro, posted with the late Sheriff A. B. Foster when he was arrested on lottery charges. The bond was later forfeited but state courts have held the county was not entitled to the money because the sheriff had no right to accept cash bonds.

Sheats said the county will carry the matter "to the last ditch in the courts." The county contends the money—now in the treasury—is its property because Martin failed to live up to requirements of his bond.

Desert Rebellion Brings Odd Turn In Parliament

LONDON, July 24 (AP)—A tribal rebellion on the Arabian desert set off a rare event in Britain's House of Commons. It is a motion of censure against the speaker, a device used only four times in this century.

The motion would reprimand Speaker William Morrison for not allowing immediate debate after a government statement of policy this week on the fighting in the Muscat and Oman sultanate.

Laborite Anthony Wedgwood Benn made the motion and it will be debated next week without much expected support. His father, Lord Stansgate, brought one of the other three motions of the 20th century.

Senate Casts Lot On Side of Reason

Removal by the Senate of the most dangerous features of the administration's civil rights measure is not so much a victory for the South as it is a triumph for reason.

Although the fight has been led by Southerners, especially Sen. Russell of Georgia, understanding of the measure by people all over the country did bring about a change in public opinion and in the attitude of the Senate.

The vote to remove Part III of the bill, stripping it of a provision granting the Justice Department broad powers to use injunctions in all civil rights cases, was decisive. The count of 52-38 reflected a drastic change of sentiment since debate began.

When you find such newspapers as the New York Times and the Washington Post calling for eliminating the most drastic powers the bill originally granted the attorney general, it can be concluded that the measure as drawn was indeed drastic. These papers have been among the most liberal in their attitude toward the problems the bill proposes to solve.

The amendment removing authority for the President to use federal troops to enforce injunctions in all civil rights cases was basic. The only assurance against such use was given by the President himself, although the administration insisted on its being left in the bill. The fact he could not answer for future presidents helped make up the Senate's mind.

The bill, with Part III now removed, thus is becoming what it was assumed to be before Sen. Russell exposed the threat it contained of executive tyranny to every individual and community. It will be a right-to-vote bill, not an all-inclusive measure giving the attorney general vast powers over the individual.

It is yet to be determined whether the right of jury trials in contempt cases growing out of violations of injunctions in right-to-vote cases will be added. The action of the Knoxville jury in the Clinton trials removed some of the ammunition of opponents of this amendment.

Sen. Russell, with the able assistance of Sen. Talmadge, are due thanks for awakening the public and the Senate to the dangers of tyranny inherent in this bill.

What the Senate has done is to prevent a vast concentration of power over the individual by the executive department of the federal government in the person of the attorney general. All people, including minority groups, will be grateful in time that it did.

Cost of Living Index Is More of the Same

For most Americans the real news of the day is pretty well buried by the civil rights debate, the Clinton guilty verdict in the desegregation contempt of court case and the several seamen, bums and ex-cons who are trying to associate themselves with the Sheppard murder case.

The news is that the cost of living index bounced up another half per cent in June to its 10th record high in as many months.

And the ascent guaranteed still another one for next month. It meant that many labor contracts, geared to the cost of living, automatically would increase. This means that employers of these persons would increase the price of their products to take care of the extra cost. This means the consumer will pay more. This means the cost of living will reach another record in July.

Economists cluck over it. But they don't know the answer. All they know is that if inflation gets out of hand it can ruin us, militarily as well as economically. So they sit on their hands to try and keep it from getting out of hand.

Air Service Will Boost U.S.-Mexican Relations

After more than two decades of negotiations between the two governments, regular airline service linking the capitals of the United States and Mexico now has been established.

Beginning of flights between New Orleans and Mexico City Tuesday of this week by Eastern Air Lines completed a direct route from New England via Atlanta to New Orleans and thence to the Mexican capital. It follows conclusion of a bilateral agreement between the two countries which went into effect in June. A Mexican airline was granted a reciprocal permit.

Eastern was first authorized to operate the U.S. flag service over this route 11 years ago but complications arose which delayed putting it into effect until now.

Opening of the Eastern section of this country to direct air travel to Mexico City should do a great deal to cement relations between the two countries. Mexico, a potentially wealthy nation with comparatively undeveloped resources, is in the midst of an industrial revolution financed largely by private U.S. capital. Under its impact, the primitive agricultural society gradually is being transformed.

Mexico City itself is a modern, thriving metropolis of more than four million people. Its university and its culture, more and more influenced by U.S. standards, are helping to lead the country toward greater stability than it has known in its history. Per capita incomes increased more than 25 per cent in the last decade. Industrial production is increasing faster than that of the United States.

With a population of more than 30 million people, Mexico is making rapid progress in its transition from an almost feudal society into the industrial age. It is one of the best of our good neighbors. Opening of direct airline service from the East—less than six hours flying time from Atlanta—should make it even more so and opens up a vacation land to additional thousands of U.S. tourists.

Decatur Invests Surplus While State's Lies Idle

The City of Decatur's mid-year report shows a healthy financial condition.

Income for the first six months of the year has comfortably exceeded half of the $844,424 anticipated for the year. Expenditures so far have totaled $375,619, leaving current operations in the black.

Surplus funds have been put to work. The report points to $11,183 collected in interest.

Decatur's handling of surplus money contrasts sharply with the State of Georgia's policy of allowing funds to lie idle until the time comes to spend them. It is a poor business practice which the state persists in pursuing for little reason, unless perhaps it is to reward a few banks whose leaders are on the "right" political side. They receive state deposits, pay no interest on them but have the use of the money until such time as it is demanded.

The Legislative Economy Committee, along with individual experts in finance, have recommended that the present system be abolished. Short-term government bonds have been suggested as a safe investment which would return the state a tidy sum.

If Decatur can collect $11,183 in interest, surely the State of Georgia could realize a considerable amount from the millions it now permits the banks to use free of charge.

Despite double views of financial prospects emanating from the revenue commissioner's office, the state probably could use the extra money.

School Administration Should Have Standards

Education in Georgia is a 200-million-dollar business at the state level alone. To that must be added the millions spent by local districts—counties and cities.

Surely, running the schools calls for top level management. That means boards of education capable of making progressive policy and professionally trained administrators capable of making that policy effective.

The Georgia Association of County School Superintendents has acted unselfishly and wisely in the unanimous adoption of a resolution recommending that the school superintendent's job be professionalized.

That end would be achieved by requiring that the county superintendent be trained and experienced as a teacher and an administrator.

Logically, the superintendents association said that the professional requirements should apply all the way to the chief school administrator in the state, the state school superintendent.

The county superintendents' platform for raising the standards up and down the line in school administration has long been the platform of The Atlanta Constitution.

We have insisted on boards of education elected by the people and superintendents appointed by the board on the basis of training and experience.

Georgia schools are moving in that direction. We are encouraged.

Furthermore, he has 32 assistants.

It's Dreamy Drifting On Old Bay Line

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The steamboats are gone from the Mississippi and the fast packets that used to ply the Eastern Seaboard from Boston to Savannah have now joined the covered wagon in the limbo of lost time. There's one hardy survivor, though, which still endures, uncrushed by the competition of the train, the highway or the plane.

The Old Bay Line still runs its night boat to Norfolk from the wharfs down on Maine avenue and people still ride her as people have been riding boats along this river since long before there was a Washington.

She pulls out about 6:30 in the evening, a long, slim, narrow craft, painted a gleamy white.

Usually in the summer there are some 300 souls aboard. They are families, mostly fathers and mothers with their young, taking their summer vacation by touring the historic spots. They bring their cars aboard at Washington, spend a pleasant evening on the boat and drive off in the morning at Old Point Comfort or Norfolk, refreshed after a good night's sleep and 200 miles nearer their destination of Williamsburg or Jamestown.

The price of the stateroom on the boat is roughly the same as the cost of a motel and the fare for carrying the car by boat is about the same it would cost to drive the same distance.

Northbound tourists, of course, reverse the process, coming aboard at Norfolk or Old Point Comfort and driving off in Washington the next morning.

The dividend, of course, is in the cool and pleasant evening on the boat. The food is good, the service deft, the beds comfortable. The best part, of course, is the ride down the river. Behind you, as you pull away, the dome of the Capitol and the thin spire of the monument rise from the flatlands. Ahead, the dark river broods. Over you, flying so low that you feel you could almost reach up and scratch their silver bellies, the planes from National Airport take off directly over you as the boat straightens out for its long run down river. The plane will land in Norfolk in 47 minutes. It will take you 14 hours to get there by ship. But the time doesn't matter.

All that matters is the starlight, the water and the breeze and the gentle drifting into deep and dreamless sleep.

A Tornado Hurls Challenge to Faith

(Dr. Allen's column is being written this week by Dr. John R. Brokhoff, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Charlotte, N.C.)

I happened to be in Kansas City conducting a preaching mission when the recent tornado struck a suburb less than a mile from the church in which I was preaching. The next day I spent an afternoon walking through the rubble.

You cannot imagine what total destruction means until you have walked in the wake of a storm. Whole houses are torn into shreds. Cars are squashed just as you would take a piece of paper and crush it in your hand before throwing it into a wastepaper basket. Trees are stripped of their leaves and split in two. Clothing and household furnishings are scattered for blocks. One woman found her wedding dress several blocks from her home.

Add it up in terms of physical loss and you have stupendous figures: 37 dead, 200 injured, property damage of 20 million dollars and millions more required for rehabilitation.

Property damage is the lesser side of the loss. A tornado means human agony. A baby a few weeks old was torn from the arms of its father and has not yet been found. Wives lost their husbands. Parents searched all night for their children not knowing if they would ever see them again. Tears, heartbreak, bereavement, pain and mental anguish make up the real cost of a tornado.

As I slowly walked almost in a daze through the blocks and blocks of devastation, certain thoughts came to mind.

For one thing, here before me were scattered the possessions of more than 400 families. Cars, homes, TV sets, air conditioning units were a complete loss. These represented the total life savings of these families. In 30 seconds one Monday evening in May they lost all. For these things most of these families lived. They worked and saved and scraped to have them. This was the reason for their living.

This is a powerful lesson to those who live for nothing except cars and houses and conveniences. We know we cannot take these things with us when we die, but all can be lost before we die. Life must be built upon something other than things.

Where was God in this storm? Was He responsible? This path of death and destruction seemed foreign to the God we know in Jesus. This did not look like the work of a God of love and mercy. When Elijah, the prophet, once sought God in a whirlwind he could not find Him. Nor could I in this tornado. God may have permitted the storm but it does not fit into His character of compassion.

No one knows why tornadoes, hurricanes and earthquakes cause innocent people to suffer. Natural evils are a challenge to maintain faith in a God of goodness and mercy.

Atlantan Rips Officials' Tribute To Compel Ku Klux Klan To Conform to Laws of State

Atlanta—The Ku Klux Klan's disregard of the directives of Gov. Griffin and Commissioner of Agriculture Phil Campbell not to use the State Farmers Market in Savannah for their meeting place should prove to the governor beyond a doubt that the Klan does not intend to obey any law.

Too long has the Klan been given a free hand to do as they please without our top officials taking any firm action.

The trouble with letting these organizations grow is that after a while they know no race, creed or color. They go forward to carry out their ugly plans irrespective of the law and order.

New York, N.Y.—I read with interest Ralph McGill's column on Gov. Cox and every one of his readers will thoroughly approve of it, as I do. I had great admiration and affection for the governor.

He was a truly great American who left his footprints on the sands of time. There are all too few of his kind left in the newspaper field.

County Unit System Called Undemocratic

Cartersville — In recent years many people have moved into this section from other states. Because I am secretary-treasurer of the local Democratic committee, many of them ask me about our county unit system.

Based upon the 1950 census, why is a vote in Echols County worth as much as 64 votes in Fulton County?

What makes one voter in Echols have as much power as 64 voters in Fulton?

What are the facts that would justify such inequality? (Echols County with a population of 2,494 has two unit votes, Fulton with a population of 473,529 has only six.)

I see that all of the candidates are swearing to live and die by the county unit rule. I suppose they think it is easier to carry a lot of little counties than to sell themselves to intelligent voters.

PERCY A. BRAY.

'Governor Was Slow To Unearth Deadwood'

Demorest—Gov. Marvin Griffin does not want any competition but wants to do all the politicking himself. Charlie Gowen, the best man in the race for governor in 1954, urged the necessity of getting rid of so many useless jobs but it took Marvin two and a half years and the popularity of Ernest Vandiver and the help of Cheney for him to find any deadwood, and now he can't find any except Vandiver supporters. Rather strange, isn't it?

West Virginian Notes Carthaginian Mistake

Oak Hill, W. Va.—A couple of centuries or so before Christ walked beside the Sea of Galilee there were fought in the area of the Inland Ocean three great and decisive wars. It took just that many to be decisive.

They were called the Punic Wars. By dint of terrific effort and enthusiasm the Romans won all three, but not without bringing forth one of the greatest military geniuses of all time, the Carthaginian general, Hannibal.

During the Third Punic War, when the Carthaginians were hard pressed and the Romans were at their very gates, the men of Carthage asked for an armistice. In the negotiations that followed, the Romans promised their enemy that if they would give up all their arms they would spare the city.

The Carthaginians agreed and when the Romans had possessed themselves of all the shields, spears, ballistae, bows and arrows, swords and catapults, the perfidious Romans then disclosed to them the bitter truth—"Carthago delenda est"—Carthage must be destroyed.

Three things it is well for Americans to remember: The "scraps of paper" of a decade or so ago may well be still just that—scraps of paper: dishonesty, treachery, perfidy are still upon the earth; and lastly, when America is completely disarmed, our women's hair will be found woefully short for bowstrings.

Chinese Have A Yen for It

If you've got ginseng to sell, Jake Plott of Blairsville is your man. Jake buys ginseng and raw furs. He isn't paying quite the $25 a pound I quoted here the other day. The Blairsville buyer says that is a little high.

"What is ginseng anyway?" asks Frank Veale, the Cairo, Ga., young man who helps mark up the editorial page copy.

"Ginseng, my boy," I tell him, "is ancient and honorable Chinese herb, also grown wild in this country and dug for export. It has small, greenish flowers and scarlet berries. The aromatic root is highly prized as a medicine in China. The stuff tastes like licorice, I am told, and is used as a demulcent."

A demulcent, Junior, is something that softens, smoothes or mollifies. Like the words with which a wife prefaces the announcement that she has bought a new hat.

HANG UP: Item from Detroit, "Experimental testing of air-to-ground telephone service will take place in September, the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has announced."

Many of us had hoped we'd spared that convenience. So far, the plane is about the only place one is not paged with "Please answer the nearest telephone!"

HIGHLINES: In this age of "alphabet soup" initials may mean various things according to the interest you have. To one fellow DP is a displaced person. To another it is a double play. ERA may be Economic Recovery Administration or Earned Run Average. But in spite of all we do, IOU seems to continue to mean the same thing.—Harold C. Clarke in the Monroe Advertiser.

Do you remember when a cast-iron squirrel or frog was used as a door stop?—Kathryn C. Worley in the Monticello News.

Boy, our town is living modern. With so much water close by and more and more people taking to boating and fishing, you see men wearing Bermuda shorts who wouldn't have been caught dead in a pair of them a few years back. —"Tige" Pickle in the Early County News.

Rights Decisions Pin Squirming Senators

WASHINGTON—The close observer of the Senate these days comes to understand why senators so rarely win nominations for the presidency and why "outsiders" are so heavily favored—governors, chiefly, with occasionally a military man or a businessman. In the highly controversial civil rights issue now before the Senate you can see exposed, more dramatically than usual, the danger inherent in the necessity of senators to go on record day after day on major issues before the people.

That record can be dug up later, as it usually is, to be thrown at a senator. Neither governors nor other "outsiders" live in such a goldfish bowl.

The Senate chamber is air-cooled. But you can almost see the beads of perspiration as senators known to be looking longingly toward 1960's national nominating conventions—and that's a lot of senators—squirm under the compulsion of making a decision on this or that provision, or this or that amendment, related to the Eisenhower civil rights bill.

The way of the compromiser, like that of the transgressor, is hard. Cast in that difficult role that could bring trouble later are the two party leaders—Sen. William F. Knowland (Cal), the Republican leader, who is a candidate for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex), the Democratic leader, who is regarded as a candidate for his party's nomination.

Beyond his own personal ambition, Sen. Knowland carries the load of the broader assignment to get credit for his party for a civil rights bill adequate enough to win converts among Negro voters who hold a balance-of-power position in big urban centers in the North.

Sen. Johnson's task is obviously harder. For, beyond his own personal stake, he must keep his fellow Southerners, either in their speeches or in amendments they propose, from putting the Dixie brand on the party that might increase the exodus from it by Negroes that began in last year's presidential election.

For real trouble—take some Democrats.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, for example. His dramatic run in last August's Democratic convention for the vice presidential nomination, in which you will recall he was barely nosed out by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, gave him ideas about the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination. Southern delegations contributed handsomely to his near win at Chicago last summer.

You can imagine what sort of a swivet he's in today trying to please both North and South.

Another senator ambitious for the 1960 Democratic nomination—Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota — seems more mellowed toward the South on the civil rights issue than nine years ago when, a veritable firebrand, he threw the 1948 Democratic convention into an explosive melee.

Many Southern delegates walked out and met later at Birmingham, Ala., and formed the Dixiecrat independent party that took four Southern states from President Harry S. Truman. We have seen Sen. Humphrey team up with Republican Leader Knowland in the amendment repealing an old Reconstruction law permitting use of force.

We can imagine that Democrat governors, such as Govs. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, and Averell Harriman of New York, are much happier sitting in the wings going about their business and not having to vote day after day on delicate issues.

Waycross Journal-Herald

Gov. Cox Served Admirably As Statesman and Publisher

The death of James M. Cox is mourned by newspaper people the nation over. He was best known in Georgia as the publisher of The Atlanta Journal and Constitution, but some 40 years ago he was one of the nation's foremost political figures.

He served three terms as governor of Ohio and in 1920 he won the Democratic presidential nomination and Franklin D. Roosevelt was his running mate.

Gov. Cox campaigned tirelessly in behalf of U.S. participation in the League of Nations but he was waging a losing fight. He was defeated by Warren G. Harding and the United States tragically declined to participate in the League of Nations.

Since he acquired ownership of a Georgia paper in the 1930s, Gov. Cox has been a much discussed and, indeed, much maligned individual.

Particularly has this been true since he acquired The Atlanta Constitution after World War II.

In every state political campaign for the past 20 years "Jim Cox" and "lying Atlanta newspapers" have been shouted from the stump by politicians.

We have always been inclined to doubt whether the head of the Cox organization was as interested in running Georgia politics as he was made out to be.

Needless to say, the Atlanta press has long been regarded as an excellent whipping boy by politicians. And, as the owner of Georgia's largest papers, Gov. Cox was the prime target.

But to the best of our knowledge, the elderly publisher gave the reins to his Georgia editors and urged them to use the newspapers in the best interests of the people of their state and nation.

We join in paying tribute to the distinguished publisher and statesman who passed away last week.

Savannah Morning News

A factor which is seldom taken into sufficient account in formulation of our federal farm policies is the fact that on the American farm there has been wrought the greatest changes of our times. As a result the problems are seldom those of a few decades ago. Yet, broadly speaking, we have been reluctant to apply modern remedies and modern principles to modern problems. The result is our current picture of agricultural confusion.

Gov. Griffin Will Dedicate New $4.7 Million Portion of Expressway Today

Gov. Griffin will dedicate another portion of the Atlanta Expressway System at 10 a.m. Thursday.

The new stretch, from University avenue north to Richardson street, is another step in the completion of this multimillion-dollar project.

This new section alone cost $4,700,000. Fulton County financed 2½ million dollars to purchase the rights of way, while the actual construction costs were borne equally by the federal government, the state government and Fulton County.

Work on this new section has been under way since March, 1955. Four bridges had to be constructed so the roadway could pass over University avenue, under the Southern Railroad tracks, under Pryor street, and over Georgia avenue.

Permanent interchanges are located at University avenue and Georgia avenue. In addition, a temporary off-ramp is being built at Glenn street for northbound traffic.

In addition to Gov. Griffin, others expected at today's ceremonies include legislative members and officials of Fulton, Clayton, Henry and Spalding counties, and officials of the cities of Atlanta, Hapeville, Jonesboro and Griffin. Officials of the State Highway Department and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads are also expected.

Speakers for the program, in addition to Griffin, include Roy F. Chalker, new highway board chairman; Archie Lindsey, chairman of the Fulton County Commission, and Mayor Hartsfield.

MISS AVIATION GREETS CANADIANS—Lockheed employe Karen Bain, "Miss Georgia Aviation of 1957," greets leaders of 26 Canadian Civil Air Patrol cadets shortly after the group's arrival at Dobbins Air Force Base Wednesday afternoon. Officer Fails To Show in Boy-Attack

Constitution State News Service

CUMMING, July 24 — One of two former policemen scheduled to go on trial Thursday charged with the shooting of a 16-year-old boy failed to appear in court as ordered Wednesday.

Former Cumming policemen J. J. Bentley and T. O. Hansard are scheduled to go on trial Thursday on charges of assault with intent to murder Bobby Chastain, 16, of Cumming.

Both men, free under $5,000 bond were ordered to appear in court Wednesday, but Bentley did not show up, Forsyth County solicitor Sam Burtz said.

Burtz said he understands Bentley is in South Carolina and is "sending over there to find him."

He said he will ask the court to permit him to prosecute Hansard separately if Bentley does not appear by noon Thursday.

The officers were arrested in December in connection with the serious wounding of Chastain in what appeared to be a drag race in front of the police station.

They said they fired in the air and not directly at the car in which Chastain was a passenger.

Selassie, Saud Plan Closer Ties

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, July 24 (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie and King Saud of Saudi Arabia said after a meeting today they will set up closer economic and diplomatic relations. Saud has been here for a three-day visit which Haile Selassie will return soon, a communique said.

Driver Dies at Wheel; Truck Rams Building

A driver apparently died of a heart attack Wednesday shortly before his machine jumped the curbing and struck a building at Broad and Popular streets., NW, police said.

He was identified as Luther Peters, 58, Negro, of 199 Cain St., NE.

Patrolman G. W. Sanders said he was told Peters was driving south on Broad street when he slumped over the steering wheel and the one-ton truck mounted the curbing, struck a metal pole and stopped against a building at 68 Broad St.

'Clinton 7' Are Given Deadline Of Aug. 14 To File for Retrial

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 24 (AP)—Defense attorneys today were given until Aug. 14 to file formal motions for a new trial for seven persons convicted of interfering with racial integration of Clinton High School.

U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor set the date for filing of the briefs following a conference with defense lawyers.

The attorneys served notice yesterday after conviction of Northern segregationist John Kasper and six Clinton area residents that they would seek a new trial.

If Taylor rejects their plea, they said they will file an appeal with the U.S. Court of Appeals, at Cincinnati.

Kasper and the "Clinton 6" were convicted of criminal contempt of court for violating a federal injunction prohibiting interference with orderly integration of the previously all-white high school.

Those convicted could be sentenced up to six months in jail and fined up to $1,000, or both.

Taylor indicated he will not pronounce judgment on the defendants until after argument on the new trial motions. He plans a vacation in August, so it is unlikely he will hear the attorneys' pleas until September or later.

Meanwhile, the defendants are free under bonds of $1,000 each. Taylor reduced the bonds, which has ranged from $2,500 to $12,000, after the all-white jury returned its verdict yesterday.

That 'Man' Trapped on Stone Mtn.? Just an Old Newspaper, Nour Says

The "man" on Stone Mountain Tuesday night was probably a newspaper, veteran rescuer Elias Nour said Wednesday.

Nour, who has participated in many Stone Mountain rescues, said he found a newspaper page at a spot near the mountain's rim where witnesses said they had seen a man. "The moss was undisturbed above the spot they claimed he was," Nour said. "I'm pretty sure they saw the newspaper."

Law officers and Nour were unable to find anyone trapped on the mountain's sheer wall during a five-hour search Tuesday night. Nour said he inspected the base of the mountain Wednesday morning and found nothing.

90 Catfish, Unbaited Hooks---Some Catch!

By MARJORY RUTHERFORD

SEEN ANY GOOD fish stories lately?

M./Sgt. Alma Hanover, stationed at Fort McPherson, and a WAC friend caught this clothesline of catfish with unbaited hooks, using bamboo poles in a small lake about 15 miles from Fort Mac.

There are 90 (count 'em, 90) fish displayed by Sgt. Hanover here. The sergeant and another female I z a a k Walton, Pfc. Eunice Raynsford, hung their catch on a clothesline they happened to have in the trunk of their car.

Fish were caught in three hours time—pulled in so fast that two other Wacs on the outing were kept busy just taking the fish off the lines. Sgt. Hanover, a native of Bayonne, N.J., is sold on Georgia as a fisherman's paradise. "Never caught so many fish in my life as I have around here," she reported happily.

Atlanta Printer Asks $20,888 Of Kansan for Bible Work

GARDEN CITY, Kan., July 24 (AP)—An Atlanta company yesterday filed suit in district court here, asking $20,888 from a Kansan who had ordered it to reprint the Bible with his notes and commentaries.

Foote & Davies, Inc., wants the judgment against James E. Ely, western Kansas farmer, philanthropist and writer. Ely formerly lived here but his present whereabouts are unknown, the petition said.

Ely first approached the firm in 1946 about publishing the Bible text with his commentaries, the petition related.

Subsequently, the petition said: In October, 1948, Ely placed an order for the job with 25,000 copies to be printed. Since then the printers have set 1,669 pages in type and have prepared 690 electrotypes, many of which had to be redone when Ely made extensive revisions on page proofs. Ely never has submitted all his copy.

Foote & Davies says it has nearly 30 tons of paper and 7½ tons of type metal tied up in the job, costing some $150 a month for storage. Ely, the firm says, has paid $69,707 on the bill, but the company wants the balance which it says is due on the $78,498 job expenses and $12,098 in profit it expected to earn had the job been completed.

Cabinet Rips House Bill To Ban GI Trials Abroad

Rep. Vinson Backs Ike's Defense Of Treaties Fixing Jurisdiction

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The administration fought today against barring foreign trials for offenses committed by U.S. servicemen while on duty.

A bill to forbid such trials encountered solid opposition from State and Defense Department officials before the House Armed Services Committee.

They said it would break with international law, compel the United States to violate treaties, undermining mutual defense alliances and American security, and result in more foreign and fewer U.S. trials for GIs overseas.

The target was a bill by Rep. Kilday (D-Tex), an offshoot of the famed Girard case which inflamed public opinion on both sides of the Pacific. As a result of the concern over GI trials abroad, hearings got under way with practically the whole committee and much of the top command of the Pentagon on hand.

Kilday himself said the issue was "justice" for GIs, not preserving "good foreign relations."

MORALE THREATENED

If servicemen get the idea foreign courts may try them for acts while on duty, he said, morale will suffer, enlistments may decline and Congress might not continue the draft law.

The committee chairman, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), apparently took a stand alongside the administration. He said he is "completely convinced" of the "benefit to American servicemen stationed abroad" from agreements and treaties which give foreign nations the right to try GIs for some kinds of offenses.

One big argument of the government is that without these agreements, foreign nations would have the right to try GI's for all illegal acts within their territory.

Kilday's bill doesn't go as far as one by Rep. Bow (R-Ohio), aimed at barring foreign trials for both off-duty and on-duty offenses.

DECISIONS

The Kilday measure would require the secretary of the Army, Navy, or Air Force to decide whether offenses were committed in line of duty and thus subject to trial by U.S. court-marial. If the secretary found they were, the bill would forbid handing over the GIs to a foreign power regardless of what a treaty says.

Mansfield D. Sprague, assistant secretary of defense for national security affairs, told the committee that in three and a half years other countries waived rights to try 67 per cent of 38,000 GI cases whereas this country waived its jurisdiction in only one.

If Congress passes a law forbidding this country to waive jurisdiction for any on-duty offenses, Sprague said, other countries would grant fewer waivers to the United States.

Army Drops 25,000 for Ineptitude

WASHINGTON, July 24—The Army and Air Force announced details today of their plans to reduce the size of their forces as part of the 100,000-man cut in the uniformed military establishment ordered by the Defense Department.

The Air Force said it would permit a substantial number of enlisted men and officers to quit in advance of the expiration of their service terms, if they did not plan to re-enlist anyway.

BRUCKER'S APPEAL

The Army announced it would drop about 1,500 officers, on an involuntary basis, and about 25,000 enlisted men on grounds of ineptitude. Army Secretary Brucker also has asked Congress to amend the Selective Service Act to permit greater Army discretion in screening drafted soldiers.

In a letter to Sam Rayburn, speaker of the House of Representatives, Brucker declared:

"Experience has shown that an appreciable number of personnel who meet current minimum statutory mental standards do not possess sufficient aptitude to assimilate training in even the most basic military skills.

COSTLY

"At great expense the department of defense attempts to train these personnel to perform some useful service. After every reasonable attempt has been made to train and utilize these personnel, the totally inept and unsuitable are discharged from the service.

"This process is costly and time-consuming and can be avoided only by more selective aptitude screening prior to induction."

The Air Force said it planned to reduce its strength by 3,800 officers and at least 21,200 airmen before the end of the year. As necessary, it was explained, airmen whose normal terms of service expire during the next 12 months and who do not plan to re-enlist may be released as much as five months early.

The Air Force also announced plans for delays in duty status and releases of non-career reservists, as well as speedy retirement of certain reserve officers, upon recommendation of a board of general officers.

LONDON, July 24—Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, one of Britain's leading geneticists, left England today to settle in India.

"I want to live in a free country where there are no foreign troops based all over the place. Yes, I do mean the Americans," he said before emplaning at London Airport with his wife, Dr. Helen Spurway. He said "I have nothing against the Americans in particular—I would feel the same if the troops were German, French of anything else."

A man of left-wing views, Haldane has been voicing his disgruntlement with British policies and the British way of life for years. An admirer of Prime Minister Nehru, Professor Haldane many times has indicated that India's mental climate would suit him best.

The last of his many university appointments was professor of biometry at University College, London. He is a fellow of Royal Society and an honorary member of the Moscow Academy of Sciences. During World War II, he did valuable scientific work for the British government.

The professor's disgruntlement set in after the war. He was chairman of the editorial board of the Communist London Daily Worker from 1940 to 1949 and wrote outstanding scientific articles in that paper. Later he cooled toward the Communist Party. One reason was that he did not accept the theories of Trofim Lysenko, Soviet geneticist, that characteristics produced by environment become hereditary.

It has never been disclosed whether he broke formally with the Communist Party.

Haldane and his wife will work together in the Indian Statistical Office in Calcutta.

The professor said he had long intended to leave the country and that his decision to leave was accelerated by the Suez affair. Haldane, 64, said: "These things make a difference to an old-fashioned person like me."

Police Battle Strikers at London Mart

By LEONARD INGALLS

LONDON, July 24—Violence in strikes at Covent Garden Market and among 100,000 employes of Provincial Bus Lines caused concern today in Britain.

At Covent Garden, the chief distributing place of fresh fruit and vegetables in London, police were forced to draw their truncheons early today, bottles were thrown and a truck bearing melons was set afire. Eleven men were arrested.

DRIVERS THREATENED

In the bus strike, drivers of vehicles still operating have been threatened, passengers have been forced to leave buses, tires have been deflated and school buses have been obstructed and delayed.

The strike of porters at Covent Garden began more than a week ago. It has spread to four other markets that serve London. They are Spitalfields, Borough, Brentford and Stratford. The number of men on strike is 3,800. Thus far the supply of produce in London has not been seriously affected.

UNIFIED FORCE

The Covent Garden porters struck because they were dissatisfied with a new agreement with the employers that would unify the labor force at the market into one category available for all jobs. Workers at the other markets struck out of sympathy.

Senators Delay Textile Union Quiz

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Just as they were about to dig into the question of spending union money for brassieres and other odd items, the Senate's rackets probers today temporarily called things off.

Today's meeting of the Rackets Investigations Committee was cancelled because Robert F. Kennedy, its chief counsel, had to testify in a federal court trial of a contempt of Congress case.

Kennedy and the senators still planned to get information later from President Anthony Valente and Secretary - Treasurer Lloyd Klenert of the United Textile Workers about some questioned union spending.

Kennedy said the committee wants to explore at least $100,000 of items charged to the union in what he described as flagrant misuse of the UTW's funds.

The total includes $57,000 that was used toward the purchase of houses for Valente and Klenert and which, Klenert has testified was repaid.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the committee mentioned yesterday a variety of items as having shown up on hotel bills of union officials and paid from union funds. The items included brassieres, milk stools, and TV sets.

'Keep DeKalb Ahead' Campaign Raises $27,879

DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce has successfully concluded its "Keep DeKalb Ahead" campaign.

At a final report meeting at the American Legion Club in Avondale Estates a total of $27,879 in collections was reported, or 111 per cent of the $25,000 goal.

Earl J. Smith, campaign director, immediately announced that a "clean-up drive," organized along geographic lines, would be started with the idea of pushing the chamber's budget to $30,000.

President C. C. Emmerich said a general membership meeting will be held at the American Legion Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday, August 6. Members will vote on a constitution and by-laws.

The campaign resulted in obtaining 215 new members and in renewed pledges of 177 old members.

Jim W. Anderson, co-chairman of the campaign, said a committee set up to select a new executive director expects to announce the name of the man to take the post soon. One of the chamber's primary reasons for taking an expanded budget was for employing a man trained in chamber of commerce work.

New Alcoholic Clinic At Prison Farm Urged

A clinic for habitual alcoholics should be established at the city prison farm on Key road, SE, Municipal Court Judge James E. Webb said Wednesday.

Judge Webb said he was outlining his proposal in letters to the Board of Aldermen and other city officials.

The clinic would cost Atlanta approximately $50,000 a year, he said, but "would pay for itself" once started. The judge pointed out the majority of alcoholic cases coming before the courts are connected with "repeaters" and that each trial costs $20.

"Several days ago I had a records check on a few of these people," he added. "I found they had records ranging from 45 to 93 offenses."

Judge Webb said the idea originated when Dr. Vernelle Fox, director of the Georgian Clinic, requested him to send some chronic alcoholics to the clinic on a probationary status. Those sent form a test group in possibilities of rehabilitation.

Since the test's beginning early this year, the judge said, 30 alcoholics have been referred to the clinic. Twenty-two made a successful adjustment, he added.

Dr. Fox declined comment on the experiment's success or failure. "It's too early to really tell," she said. "The crucial part is seeing whether or not they continue to come to the clinic when they are no longer on probation."

A number of them have stopped treatment when off probation, she said. Several "stopped coming even before their probationary period was over."

Dr. Fox said no offenders are being assigned the clinic at the present time. Three months after those now under treatment are off probation, the test will be finished, she said.

The extra three-month period, she explained, is to see if the alcoholic continues coming to the clinic on a voluntary basis.

Judge Webb said the 22 successfully rehabilitated, together with two others, have formed a club called The Helping Hand. The group already has offered to help at the proposed prison clinic, he said, and to assist with alcoholic cases that might come into court.

The prison clinic will "pay for itself," but the municipal court judge proposes it be financed by taxing holders of beer, wine and retail whisky licenses in Atlanta.

"Let the people who make a profit out of whisky rehabilitate the people who get hurt by it," he declared.

Judge Webb said he has written 50 major U.S. cities to see if they have alcoholic clinics on their prison program. None of them have, he said, but three or four "are thinking about it."

Present treatment of alcoholics at the Atlanta prison farm is limited to "outdoor work and good food," the judge said.

LANDMARK FALLS—The home of the late former Gov. John M. Slaton, in the center of a 74-acre tract in Buckhead, is being demolished. The land was sold July 1 by the Slaton estate to the Phoenix Investment Corp. for $1,356,000. Phoenix in turn has sold 100 feet at the south end of the Peachtree frontage to Central Chevrolet Co. for $125,000. John O. Chiles, president of Adams-Cates Co., who handled sales negotiations, said details of plans for ultimate development of the tract are being prepared.

AWAY UPSTAIRS FROM BALLOON

Rocket To Be Set Off 20 Miles Above Ocean

LOS ANGELES, July 24 (AP)—An Air Force-sponsored plan was announced today for an unprecedented step into space. A rocket will be launched from a balloon platform 20 miles above the Pacific Ocean in September in an effort to set a new altitude record of "thousands of miles."

Announcement of the project was made by the Ford Motor Company's West Coast subsidiary, Aeronutronic Systems, Inc. Dr. Ernst H. Krause, vice president of Aeronutronic, said his firm is working under contract to the Air Force office of scientific research.

Krause said that never before has an attempt been made to fire a rocket from a platform suspended from a lighter-than-air craft. And never before has man made a balloon the size of the huge bag 200 feet in diameter that will carry its 1,900-pound, 23-foot-long rocket load to 100,000 feet before the missile is unleashed electronically from the ground, he said.

The total load, including rocket and balloon, will be nearly two tons, the heaviest load ever to reach 100,000 feet, he said.

The four-stage rocket will blast upward, straight through the balloon, with a first-stage thrust of 160,000 pounds. The other three stages will be geared to take it to heights never before reached by a man-made instrument, Krause said.

The rocket, traveling at a top speed of more than 17,000 miles per hour, will carry a 3½ pound highly complex package of scientific instruments to investigate atmospheric and space phenomena at extremely high altitudes, Krause added.

Included in the little package 4 inches in diameter and 6 inches long will be a tiny but powerful radio that will transmit data to ground receiving and recording stations.

"The information to be collected and transmitted to the ground is the measurement of cosmic rays and the earth's magnetic field and the related effect of geomagnetic storms on these measurements."

CITY HALL NEWS

Candidates' Petitions Threatened

By HERMAN HANCOCK

All petitions already signed to place names of independent candidates on the Dec. 4 general city election ballot will be void if the Aldermanic Board approves a proposal planned for the Aug. 5 meeting.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam said Wednesday he will offer a measure to "spell out" requirements for independent candidates and one provision will be that those signing petitions must list their residences, their wards and precincts to enable the city clerk better to check the list. Another proviso is that a separate list be submitted for each candidate rather than a blanket list for a number of candidates.

Gilliam said the ordinance will follow city charter provisions except for those two major changes.

Mayor Hartsfield, 17 members of the Aldermanic Board and nine members of the Atlanta Board of Education, all nominees from the May primaries, face ratification in the December balloting.

Under existing law, in order for candidates to get their names on the ballots as independents, they must file a petition bearing the signatures of at least 2 per cent of the registered voters at the last election. They also must notify the mayor of their intention to run at least 30 days before the December election.

Gilliam said the new ordinance would "set up ground rules" so that all candidates would know what is required, but Lester Maddox, who has announced he will oppose Mayor Hartsfield, said the proposed new ordinance, "writing new provisions at this late date, is palpably unfair."

Maddox, a restaurateur, is the only announced independent thus far, although Fulton Sen. Charlie Brown and several others have been rumored for various posts.

Reports are that sufficient names already have been placed on petitions urging Brown's candidacy.

Etheridge Elected

Frank Etheridge, oldest member of the Atlanta Housing Authority in point of service, was elected chairman at a reorganization meeting Wednesday. He was vice chairman and will succeed William S. Woods, retiring president. John O. Chiles, realtor, was named vice chairman. Etheridge has been a member of the authority since it was first created in 1938. Other members of the authority are Edwin Sterne and Dr. Allen D. Albert.

Backs Police Raises

Ald. Wayne Blanchard Wednesday said he will join Ald. Ed A. Gilliam, police committee chairman, in an effort to raise the pay of city police. Blanchard said city salaries are far below those of other cities in Atlanta's class, and that he is convinced an adjustment must be made. Gilliam said Tuesday he is studying the pay scale and plans to recommend an increase, probably next month.

Police Trail Friendly Suspect To 'Shine Rendezvous Here

A suspect Wednesday waved a friendly greeting to two detectives and then unwittingly led them to a "moonshiner's rendezvous."

Detectives E. H. Lyons and J. D. Hudson said five persons were arrested and three automobiles with 113 gallons of illegal liquor were confiscated.

Those arrested, all Negroes, were listed as Rufus Fears, 19, of 398 Elm St., NW, disorderly conduct-transporting whisky; Felton H. Daniels, 18, of 82 Sunset St., NW; Charles Daniels, 22, of 70 Northside Dr., NW; Harry Andrews, 27, of 597 English Ave., NW, and Milton White, 32, of 408 Chapel Rd., SW, charged with disorderly conduct-whisky and disorderly conduct-loitering.

Lyons and Hudson, transferred to the Detective Bureau only a week ago, said they had an auto under surveillance on Childs drive, NW. They said the driver came by and, unaware that they were officers, waived a greeting.

At an isolated spot on Andrews drive and Holly road, they said, he met several autos and a group of men. Detectives said they swooped down and made arrests before the transfer of whisky from one car to another could begin.

Church Is Told To Settle Dispute Outside Court

Judge Claude D. Shaw told members of a Negro Baptist church in effect Wednesday that they should settle their dispute with their pastor within the church and not bring it into court. court.

Judge Shaw made the statement after hearing a petition brought by some deacons of Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church, asking that the court rule that the Rev. B. W. Bickers must vacate the pulpit until a paternity case against him is settled.

The petitioners claimed the church voted in conference to ask the pastor to leave the pulpit until the case against him was cleared up. The pastor contended, however, that the action was not valid and refused to vacate the pulpit.

Pointing out that there was some question in his own mind as to whether to conference action was valid, Judge Shaw suggested that the church call a new conference to definitely decide the issue.

Rep. Walton Sued For Divorce on Cruelty Charge

Former Fulton County Rep. Jesse L. Walton, 51, is being sued by his wife for divorce and alimony in Fulton Superior Court.

Mrs. Kathleen Thomason Walton, 53, of 630 Elizabeth Pl., NW, asked for the divorce on grounds of cruel treatment. The couple was married March 23, 1927, and separated July 16 of this year, the petition said. They have one child, Johnny Walton, 23.

Judge Claude D. Shaw set a hearing on the petition in the domestic relations division for 9:30 a.m., Aug. 27.

Vienna Farm Worker, 60, Walks Into Plane Propeller and Is Killed

A 60-year-old Vienna farm worker walked into the whirling propeller of a parked crop-dusting airplane Wednesday and was killed.

Witnesses said that Eddie Lee Daniels was helping to load insect spray onto the plane seven miles west of Vienna.

G. N. Guest, watching the loading from his truck, said, "Eddie Lee just walked into it as if he didn't notice it, even though everybody was yelling to him to watch out."

The propeller struck Daniels' head and knocked him to the ground.

Vienna doctors decided to send him to a hospital at Macon, but Daniels was dead on arrival there.

Reds Can't Win, Asserts Book by Tito's Jailed V-P

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

The book was smuggled out of that country before Djilas was arrested last November and sentenced to three years in prison. It will be published Aug. 12 by Frederick A. Praeger of New York. Previewed today by Life Magazine, it appears to be one of the most damaging indictments of communism, either the Tito or Soviet variety, ever to come from inside a Communist country.

Djilas is quoted as declaring in the book, called "The New Class:"

"The world center of Communist ideology no longer exists; it is in the process of complete disintegration. The unity of the world Communist movement is incurably injured. There are no visible possibilities whatsoever that it can be restored. . .

ECONOMY WASTEFUL

"The Communist economy is perhaps the most wasteful in the history of human society.

"The thirst for power is insatiable and irresistible among Communists. . . Careerism, extravagance and love of power are inevitable and so is corruption. . . It is a special type of corruption caused by the fact that the government is in the hands of a single political group and is the source of all privileges.

"Communist regimes are a form of latent civil war between the government and the people."

He says the leadership in Communist countries is an exploiting class, and continues:

PARASITES

"He who grabs power grabs privileges and indirectly grabs property. Consequently in communism power or politics as a profession is the ideal of those who have the desire or the prospect of living as parasites at the expense of others.

"Because of its totalitarianism and monopolism, the new class finds itself unavoidably at war with everything which it does not administer or handle, and must deliberately aspire to destroy or conquer it. . ."

The book's appearance promises more trouble for Djilas. Tito is in the midst of dealings with the Kremlin aimed at healing the breach between the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia.

Civil Defense Stresses Nurses' Disaster Role

The Federal Civil Defense Administration is stressing the vital role of America's nurses in a leaflet entitled "Civil Defense and the Nurse."

Emphasizing the dual role of the nurse in event of enemy attack or natural disaster, the publication said the nurse should prepare for personal and family survival by knowing:

(1) The need for civil defense, (2) what to do if natural disaster strikes, (3) effects of wartime destruction, (4) local civil defense plans, (5) warning signals for their communities, (6) facts about radioactive fallout and (7) how to prepare their homes to cope with effects of enemy attack or natural disaster.

The pamphlet is available from local and state civil defense organizations.

Dallas, Miami Snagged In Segregation Efforts

County will resist integration as long as possible, that these districts "won't do anything without a court order."

In Dallas itself, school officials said segregation would probably continue awaiting the outcome of a review. They said they would study the decision before deciding on their next move, which might include an appeal to the Supreme Court.

In the Miami case, also written by Rives, the appeals court said the federal district judge in Florida erred when he dismissed a complaint by the Negroes trying to enter white schools.

The Miami school board had contended that the complaint was not a justifiable controversy because the Negroes had not sought to enter any specific school.

Rives held that the Negroes did not have to "make application for admission to a particular school," and he cited a case involving the public schools at New Orleans.

The Miami school board also had contended that the Negroes did not enter all the registration procedures required by the Florida pupil assignment law.

"Neither that nor any other law," said Rives, "can justify a violation of racial segregation in the public schools. "So long as that requirement continues throughout the public school system of Dade County (Miami), it would be premature to consider the effect of the Florida laws as to the assignment of pupils to particular schools."

Florida state officials said their pupil assignment law had not been tested.

Ralph Odom, assistant attorney general, said the appeals court "has simply reversed the federal district's court decision that the compalint failed to set forth a cause of action."

Gov. Leroy Collins, agreeing with Odom, repeated his belief that the Florida pupil assignment law would stand up against legal tests.

Heat, Drought Hit

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 24 (AP)—The temperature hit a record 100 degrees today amid the worst drought on this Caribbean resort island in 15 years. The old record of 97.8 was set many years ago.

School Aid Vote Denies U.S. Control

eral government would return to each state one per cent of all the federal income, individual and corporate taxes that are paid from that state into the federal Treasury. This money would be earmarked for school use, including construction.

Scrivner said his plan would provide 600 million dollars a year to the states for their schools.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. (D-NJ) said that 60 per cent of all corporate income taxes are paid from New Jersey and Delaware where the major corporations have their central offices. He said these two states thus would get 60 per cent of the corporate taxes rebated. This, he said, would be "unfair" to other states.

The House, however, put off further consideration of the school bill until tomorrow.

Supporters of the bill pinned their hopes for passage on defeating a proposed amendment which would deny federal funds to states which have segregated schools.

Rep. J. Carlton Loser (D-Tenn) said advocates of such an amendment were "drawing a fine bead on the Southern states." He said these members would prevent any Southern state with segregated schools from getting "one dime" from the school funds.

Cement Strike Cripples State's Road Program

ing project in the Lawrenceville area of the Atlanta-Athens Highway also had to be suspended.

"The cement shortage is affecting the over-all highway construction program, and many projects may be closed if the strike doesn't end soon," Shadburn said.

He pointed out that construction on the Atlanta expressway system, which uses a large volume of cement, could be drastically curtailed by a prolonged shortage of cement.

So far the strike has had no effect on the expressway program, said Gilmer MacDougald, vice president of MacDougald Construction Co. "But it will if the strike is protracted," he warned.

Work on the new State Farmers Market here has been halted because of a shortage of concrete, said Frank F. Calvin, assistant manager of Thompson-Street Construction Co.

"We're now doing preparatory work that requires no cement," Calvin added.

This is the second time in less than a month that construction of the new market has been halted. Work was stopped for about two weeks during a walkout by crafts unions whose contracts had expired July 1.

One of Georgia's two cement plants, the Southern States Portland Cement Co. at Rockmart, is in production. Still struck is the Penn-Dixie plant at Clinchfield.

Another Atlanta-area construction company official said this section is among those least affected in the nation.

Grover M. Whitley, president of Whitley Construction Co., Decatur, said this is because "business is naturally off anyhow" and there is a number of cement mills still in operation in this vicinity.

Area city and school officials said that no major projects are threatened by the strike.

Victorious South Pushes for Jury Trial After Senate Strips Down Rights Bill

bridled power to enforce spurious rights.

"The Senate showed great courage in resisting great pressures brought to bear and struck out the most vicious section of the bill.

"I am hopeful that, after appropriate debate on the great constitutional issue involved, we will secure adoption of a jury trial amendment to the voting section of the bill."

Sen. Talmadge said that "the forces of constitutional government won a great victory when the Senate voted to strike Part 3 of this bill. I am hopeful that the Senate will realize that trial by jury is the greatest civil right that we possess in America and will vote to retain it."

Roy Wilkins, secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said in a statement that the vote meant the Senate was "not willing to provide effective, time-tested machinery" to carry out Supreme Court decisions.

"The adoption of this motion says plainly to Negro Americans that, so far as the Senate is concerned, they can expect little, if any, assistance from the federal government in attempts to win the enjoyment of their constitutional rights," Wilkins said.

Today's vote and Southern victory were tributes to the influence and parliamentary skill of Sen. Russell, acknowledged leader of the Dixie senators.

It was Russell, in a speech on July 2, who pointed out the harsh provisions of Part 3 and apparently even startled President Eisenhower.

The Georgian charged then, and his accusations have been echoed since, that Part 3 would have permitted the attorney general to force racial integration in the schools and other public places in the South.

But the Southern triumph is by no means complete. They have yet to get a jury trial amendment. And the House, which passed the bill without any changes, will have to agree to all amendments—including the striking out of most of Part 3.

Northern liberals may yet seek to restore in the Senate some of the provisions of Part 3.

And in a retaliatory move against the South, Sen. McNamara (D-Mich) proposed another amendment whereby any state found to deny the rights of Negroes to vote would have its representation reduced in the House of Representatives.

Majority leader Lyndon Johnson not only voted with the South but actively supported adoption of the Anderson-Aiken-Case amendment.

On the other hand, three other senators prominently mentioned as Democratic presidential possibilities in 1960, voted against the amendment. They were Lausche of Ohio, Symington of Missouri and Kennedy of Massachusetts, who, up to now, appeared to have been courting Southern support.

Just before the vote, Johnson told the Senate, "this is one of the most basic decisions of the civil rights bill. . . . The vote may well be the deciding factor as to whether we have a bill or no bill."

The Senate, he said, could either write an adequate bill to safeguard voting rights, create a commission to study the question, or "write into law new and drastic enforcement procedures to cover a wide variety of vaguely defined, so-called civil rights."

"As far as I am concerned, I am ready to support an adequate right-to-vote bill with proper safeguards. I am willing to support a commission which will make reasoned inquiries into this serious problem.

"I believe we can work out such a measure if we do not clutter up the bill with other issues."

Forrester Raps Lawyers Guild's Role on Rights

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Rep. Forrester (D-Ga) told the House today that "doubtless the National Lawyers Guild claims great credit" for the pending civil rights legislation.

He said, "It might be well to ask them if the Brownell legislation substantially represents their brain-child."

Forrester declared that the National Lawyers Guild said, in a resolution at a 1956 convention, that they proposed omnibus civil rights legislation.

This omnibus legislation, Forrester said in the Congressional Record, "contains almost identical provisions relating to the setting up of a commission, . . . use of uncompensated personnel, the establishment of a civil rights division . . . deals with the same provisions in the conspiracy statute on civil rights and empowers the attorney general to seek injunctive relief."

Atty. Gen. Brownell must have had these omnibus bills before him when he prepared the pending civil rights legislation, Forrester said, "although it is possible he did not investigate the authorship."

Forrester said that in July 1955 the National Lawyers Guild wrote Rep. Lane (D-Mass) of the House Judiciary Committee that it had drafted a model civil rights bill and that it supported two comprehensive civil rights bills then before Congress.

The Georgian also said that in April 1956 the Lawyers Guild wrote House Judiciary Committee members. The letter said that "the Guild drafted the model omnibus civil rights act because we believe that the passage of legislation can have a strong effect upon the positive action of individuals, as well as providing a method of punishing those who violate the constitutional and moral principles of equal protection of the law and equal treatment regardless of race, color or creed."

Forrester said he was presenting this "information" about the Lawyers Guild because during current Senate debate some senators had asked who is the author of the civil rights legislation.

DeKalb's Teachers Ask Greater Study of Music, Arts

By OSCAR JOHNSON

DeKalb County's teachers have recommended that the school system initiate an expanded art and music program.

In a report released this week, a number of teachers who took part in the Emory University Summer Workshop June 17-July 19 found "an overall need of a greater enrichment program in art and music."

The report, which outlines a complete curriculum in these areas, was termed "excellent" by County School Superintendent Jim Cherry.

School officials pointed out the Emory study group report is a teachers' project, and is not the DeKalb report on schools which will be completed and released later in the summer. A third report, covering principal responsibilities, guidance and testing, will be ready for release next week.

The DeKalb phase of the annual Emory Workshop was held in the Druid Hills High School under the direction of Dr. Thad Hollingsworth, head of the department of instruction of the county board of education.

Its program, titled "Balanced Program for Better Schools," listed art, music, guidance and testing, physical education and program for the exceptional child, in that order, as the five major needs in DeKalb schools.

Concerning art and music programs, it said, "We recommend to appropriate leadership that these reports be brought back to the school faculties as a part of in-service training under the 1957-58 school term."

Values to be derived from a music curriculum were outlined as providing "an acceptable medium for emotional expression, skills to use leisure time properly, greater enjoyment of beauty, application of principals to personal appearance and surroundings, and providing situations which encourage the development of special aptitude."

The teachers said, "We believe music plays an important role in the total growth and development of all school children . . . that music will enrich the social, mental and cultural development, as well as create a happy, harmonious atmosphere for learning."

They added, "We believe that musical development can be achieved through the understanding and enjoyment of music in the home, school and community. We believe the music program will benefit the child not only during his school years, but that it will be of permanent value in the total development throughout his lifetime."

Ty Cobb Here To Talk Over Scholarships

Ty Cobb was in Atlanta Wednesday to help some Georgia youths knock some homers in getting a college education.

The 70-year-old Georgia Cracker of baseball fame met with Dr. Harmon Caldwell, chancellor of the University System of Georgia, to discuss applications for the Ty Cobb Education Foundation.

Cobb, who did not attend college himself, takes a great interest in recipients of the scholarships.

Scholarships range from $300 to $500 a year and are given only to those interested enough in a college education to work their way through the first year. The 23 applicants under consideration must prove their need and have good averages their freshman year.

Last year there weer 189 applicants. The grant was screened down to 60 prospective students and 23 received the grant.

The Atlanta office had the country's second highest participation and also increased its employe sales from 39 per cent to 87.7 per cent.

J. M. Merrell Jr., regional comptroller, was bond drive chairman.

Chance to Win Debra's Bed

I don't think Miss Paget comes with the bed and, of course, I'm not absolutely certain sure I'm going to win the bed. But the way things go, I'll probably be getting an express crate from Paramount studios in Hollywood any day after July 29.

I feel confident that among all the newspaper people in the United States who are candidates for winning this bed, I'll be the one, for the simple reason that there's nothing on earth I need less. In my wildest dreams I've wished for many things, of course, but they usually run to early American rockers rather than movie stars' beds.

Teet Carle, an affable gentleman who handles publicity for Mr. Frank Freeman's studio, wrote me a letter enclosing the stub of a ticket which somebody placed in a pot in Hollywood in my name.

We think that all our newspaper friends around the country should have an equal chance to win this bed as do the Hollywood press who will be on hand the night of our drawing. So here is your ticket stub for the drawing. We are depositing a duplicate in a container and Debra will pick the winning number that evening. If you win, we'll let you know. After that, the bed will be shipped. I hope you win."

Now I've shown a picture of the bed to several friends, trying to find out just what kind of piece of furniture this is I'm probably going to win. But so far none of the people who have seen the picture have looked at the bed, on account of Debra Paget is reclining on it.

Gentlemen always gulp and make strange inarticulate noises and end up telling me nothing about the kind of wood and the probable designer.

"Do you think this is teakwood?" I ask, pointing to the intricate carving on the bed.

"Yeah, yeah. Teak," say the men. And they don't take their eyes off Debra Paget, who as far as I can make out from the considerable portion of her person which is exposed, is by no means made of teak or any other wood.

Women friends are no more helpful. I show them the picture and point to the doodads and geegaws which hang from a pole across the top of the bed.

"How do you think this will go with my decor?" I ask.

"Your what?" they say and laugh.

I let them have their little joke. Some day I'm going to decorate my house and they'll be sorry when I'm on a house and garden tour and photographers from all the slick magazines are asking me to pose in a sari or some of those bare-midriffed Persian pants next to some rich and ornate highboy.

But if I can persuade a woman friend to stop laughing and look at the picture, does she advise me about the bed? No. She takes one look at Debra Paget and cries, "I wouldn't have that hussy lounging around in MY house!"

Now I remember Miss Paget from one interview several years ago as a nice, quiet, mannerly young maiden who let her plump, bumptious, happy-natured mother do all the talking. That's as it should be, of course, and if she wants to come to my house, she's welcome.

But I'm undecided about the bed. Should I throw out the war surplus and go in for Hollywood Persian? It's a terrible decision that's facing me—probably.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD TWINS ENJOY LITTLE BROTHER

MEDICAL JOURNALS ARE MUST READING FOR THIS COUPLE
Dr. Elizabeth Adams, of Emory Infirmary, and Dr. Charles Adams, of VA Hospital

Sapphire Blues On Fashion Scene

Although black seems to be omnipresent for fall because of the overwhelming importance of the little black dress and the dressy black suit, there is another color family that you must all meet and get to know.

It is sapphire blue, a range of deep blues, and it runs through almost the entire fashion scene; coats, suits, dresses and ensembles, cocktail and evening frocks.

You'll find it in any fabric you want, too.

'WE'RE NO RARITIES'

2 Doctors in House And 3 Children, Too

By MARGARET McLEMORE

The Charles Adamses out on North Hills drive in Decatur are becoming a trifle weary of folks asking them: "When do you have time to be with your children?"

"We're no rarities—just because we're both M.D.'s and have children," explained Mrs. Adams, a stately brunette. She added that they know many couples who are doctors and who have children.

"They see their children, and we see ours," both doctors exclaimed in unison.

THREE CHILDREN

Tall and large-boned Dr. Charles Adams, a redhead, is a resident surgeon at the Veterans Administration Hospital; his wife, Elizabeth, an internal medicine specialist, is on the staff of Emory University's Student Infirmary. They're both 33, and their children are Cheryl and Charles Jr., 4-year-old twins, and 11-month-old Arthur.

"Sure, ours is a tight schedule," Mrs. Adams said, "and it's difficult at times, but every rushed minute is worth it," she added.

Both resent being praised for parenthood, and point out their goal is no different from other married couples. . . . "To rear healthy average children."

HOW?

How do they actually manage to see their children? Longer naps for the children—so they can stay up later at night. And they include the twins, and even young Arthur, in their entertaining.

The Adamses prefer to entertain at home and always include their children and the children of their guests. Both say their entertaining would be on this basis regardless of their respective careers.

Mrs. Adams also takes the twins and the baby shopping with her. Because of her long office hours, shopping is at night. They're familiar sights at the neighborhood grocery store on Friday evenings.

They have arranged to be "on duty" at their respective hospitals on alternate Sundays so one of them is available to take the twins to Sunday school.

TWINS DON'T MIND

The twins do not mind being left with a baby-sitter for a medical meeting. "I feel sure they would if we just went out to visit friends," Mrs. Adams stated.

The parent who arrives home first takes the maid to the carline, and, of course, the dinner hour is flexible.

Christmas Day, 1956 marked the first holiday both were home all day.

"I knew beforehand we couldn't always be where we wanted to be—but I consider myself fortunate," Mrs. Adams said. "I always wanted to be a doctor and have a family. And for the record, I have no intention of ever quitting my career—either of them," Mrs. Adams said.

Williams, Hathaway Vows

FITZGERALD, July 24—Mr. and Mrs. Royce Clayton Williams of Fitzgerald and Bay St. Louis, Miss., announce the marriage of their daughter, Julia Anne, to Capt. Paul D. Hathaway Jr.

The couple was married in a double-ring ceremony by the Rev. John A. McGinnis, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Tifton.

Mrs. Bill Morris was matron of honor and Mr. Morris was best man.

Capt. Hathaway is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Hathaway of Wilmington, Del. He is attending the regular advanced Army course at Ft. Benning.

Waistline Determines Dress Size

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Dress sizes are baffling. When you read about a woman who weighs more than you do but can wear a smaller dress size, naturally you are skeptical. One perplexed reader writes:

"Are you sure some of your dieters don't fib just a little about their dress size? For example, the reducer who now weighs 129 pounds for 5' 4" and can wear size 13?

"Now let me tell you about my weight and measurements, and I am telling the truth. I am 5 feet, 1 inch tall, weigh 114 pounds as of this morning. My waist is 29, hips 36 and bra 36 D. I simply cannot pour myself in anything smaller than a size 14½, or a 16 if the waistline is shortened.

TRIED MANY DIETS

"As you will see, most of my weight is around the middle and above. My doctor keeps telling me to take off 10 pounds. I have tried many diets but simply cannot lose on 1,000 calories a day. When I drop below that I am not fit to live with."

On the size picture, it isn't just a matter of weight and height, but the size of the waistline. Ten extra pounds on a short figure invariably widens the waist and abdominal measurement. With you it is the waist measurement that is forcing you to take a size 14½.

POUND A WEEK

Size 12½ calls for a 27½ inch waistline, a 35 inch bust and 36 inch hips. With 10 pounds off you could ease into the smaller size. On a highly protective diet of 950 calories a day you can lose a pound a week—provided you will walk regularly 2 miles a day.

Back to the example, the woman who weighs 129 pounds for 5 feet, 4 inches is able to wear size 13 because she has a slim waist—26 inches.

On the diet score, cut fats to the minimum. Adequate amounts of the protective foods can be included in 950 calories, provided fats are limited to two level teaspoons daily, including the amount used in cooking. Protective nutrition is disposition-proof, too!

Change your food habits and in two months' time you can wear size 12½ with ease.

GEORGIAN SHOWS OFF BELGIAN LACE
Miss Marie McNeill Brought Gifts from Belgium

Georgia Girl at U.S. Embassies Likes Holiday Tours of Europe

By ELIZABETH MORGAN

A Georgia girl who got a job to see the world has come home for a visit after two years with the American Embassy in Brussels.

For the summer Miss Marie McNeill is staying with relatives in Americus, her home town, and Atlanta, where she lived and worked for eight years before going abroad.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McNeill, live in Americus. And in Atlanta the short, brown-eyed member of the foreign service has been staying with her cousin, Miss Louise Hargrove, and her aunt, Miss Rebecca Hargrove, on W. Shadowlawn avenue.

SECRETARY AT WSB-TV

Miss McNeill, who worked as a secretary at WSB-TV for six years, got the wanderlust in 1954. She went to Washington to take her training with the Department of State, and by early 1955 she was working as a member of the staff corps in Brussels. There she did secretarial work.

Miss McNeill liked the Brussels post, she said, because it was centrally located for traveling. On leaves, holidays and days off she managed to see all of Western Europe. And last summer her cousin, Louise, went to Belgium for a visit.

INTERESTED IN BERLIN

Miss McNeill especially was interested in Berlin. She described a "noticeable difference" in the development of the Western and Eastern zones of the German city. (American tourists may enter the Eastern zone as members of approved tours).

Miss McNeill smiled, "I missed the Georgia sun, but I did learn the fundamentals of skiing. When I go back I hope to learn more about it."

She will not be going back to Brussels, but to the embassy in Paris—an assignment she was "extremely fortunate" to get. She will land in France in September.

Miss McNeill graduated from Huntingdon College in Montgomery, Ala., in 1943. She then joined the Woman's Army Corps where she was a teletype operator for two years.

She believes the foreign service offers fine opportunities to young women who are interested in traveling around—good pay and adequate vacation time were two of her selling points.

"But," she added, "you always have the feeling that the United States is the best place to live."

Club Group Plans Tour Of Europe

Mrs. R. I. C. Prout of Wakefield, Mich., president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, accompanied by 16 clubwomen, will leave July 25 by plane to visit clubs in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Austria, Germany and France.

"The purpose of the tour," said Mrs. Prout, "is to promote intercontinental solidarity, to further international good will, and to strengthen through personal contact the ties that bind clubwomen in America with those abroad.

"Travel is the passport of understanding, for if we only knew each other many of the ills of the world would be cured. There is nothing like a personal visit to let women of other lands know that we are interested in them and their problems."

Fletcher, Mobley Troth Announced

FITZGERALD, July 24—Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Fletcher announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Clara, to Edward David Mobley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Mobley of Rome. The wedding will take place Aug. 3 at the First Baptist Church.

The bride-elect was graduated from Fitzgerald High School and attended Sullins College. She earned a B.S. degree in music education from the University of Georgia, where she was a member of the University Chorus, soloist with the Men's Glee Club and a pledge of Kappa Delta Sorority.

"They have never really seen the South and we are looking forward to showing them the 'Golden Isles' " said Mrs. Couper.

RUNNEYMEDE FARM at Paris, Ky., will be resounding with the sound of youthful voices until the first week of August because Mrs. James Kenan left her children. Agnes, Sarah and Brutus, with her mother, Mrs. Johnson N. Camden, when she returned from a visit there last week.

The other Kenan son, James Jr., is spending the summer at Camp Yonahnoka, Linville, N.C.

JUST BACK FROM SUN VALLEY, Idaho, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles West and the Robert Eldredges, who attended a lumber convention there and had such a good time they stayed on for 10 days.

"It's decidedly the best place I've ever been" enthused Mrs. West. "In addition to a perfect climate, there is ice skating, tennis, bowling, dancing and bicycling. And there is a lake within walking distance where you really catch rainbow trout instead of just casting for them."

THE CHILDREN at the W. Andrews drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Wolfe are looking forward to a visit from their grandmother. Mrs. Wolfe's mother, Mrs. C. D. Shreve, arrives today from Columbus, Ohio.

Other Atlantans attending the wedding will be the David Goldwassers and their son, Dan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Held, Charles Held Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Eli Socoloff, the Henry Rosenbaums, the William Weillers, Earl Balis, Mrs. Stanley Gumble, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kahn and their daughter, Beverly.

A NEW ADDRESS for Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Schmidt, their son and daughter, Leslie and Stephen, is 2002 Fisher Trail, NE, Briarcliff Woods. They moved from Glenn circle in Decatur.

A recent guest in their new home was Mr. Schmidt's brother, Lt. Col. F. R. Schmidt, who was en route to his new station at Panama City, Fla., after a three-year stay at the Air Force Base, St. John's, Newfoundland.

MRS. PAUL K. SNYDER, who writes under the name, Mildred M. Snyder, not only had a story in the June issue of "Popular Gardening," but she has another in the current issue. In June she wrote about growing caladiums, and in the July magazine she tells about her Atlanta garden which has something in bloom nearly 12 months of the year. The garden surrounds a barbecue area of old brick at her home on Pine Forest road.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Snyder are enthusiastic gardeners, with the former concentrating on camellias. They moved here five years ago from Richmond, though they are natives of Ohio.

Mrs. Snyder has another story coming up in November. Entitled "Decorating for Thanksgiving," it will appear in "Flower Grower."

Chicken and Turkey Worth Crowing About

By JEANNE HIGGINS DEAVER

Chicken and turkey are about the only meats worth crowing about this week, according to Betty R. Alexander and her weekly roundup of good and bad buys in the food stores.

Red meat prices are still edging upward.

But poultry is abundant and the prices are low. So whether supper is indoors or out, chicken or turkey is a good choice to head the menu.

Georgia peaches are coming to market now in their very best fashion. The quality is excellent and prices are reasonable.

Watermelons are abundant and are wearing cheaper price tags this week. As for cantaloupes, the Georgia variety is gone, but California is supplying markets with melons of excellent quality.

Red bing cherries are in the peak of their season and they look very good. Prices are reasonable.

Nectarines, plums, seedless grapes, honeydew melons and Bartlett pears are higher-cost fresh fruits, but they are very good eating.

APPLES ON MARKET

Vegetables from local growing areas are gracing market counters this week. Leading the parade will be corn, okra, butter beans, snap beans, pole beans, crowder and black-eye peas and tomatoes.

Squash is scarce and higher in price this week. And the quality is declining. Cucumbers and lettuce are wearing rather high price tags this week.

Corn reaching the markets these days is much better in quality than it once was. And according to the experts, it's all in keeping it cool. But once the corn is carried home it's up to the homemaker to refrigerate it and use the corn as soon as possible.

TIPS FOR CORN

Husks may be left on, or the corn should be wrapped in a damp cloth or placed in plastic bags until cooked.

The rest of July and August are the best months for buying corn, especially for canning and freezing. Quality is at its best and the prices are lowest.

Light Opens The Lens For Movies

Charles Percy, president of Bell and Howell Co., said the firm's new eight - millimeter solar energized movie camera automatically adjusts its lens opening like the iris of the human eye.

"There is nothing to do but press the button," Percy said.

The photoelectric eye adjusts to changing light faster than the human eye and sets the lens opening for proper exposure before the starting button is touched. It can operate the lens through its full range of stops from f1.9 to f16 in less than a second.

Percy said the new camera is the first in the world in which light energy alone supplies the power which opens and closes the lens.

This means that without knowing what an f-stop is, the movie novice can now be sure of properly exposed film every time, a result not consistently achieved by experts, the manufacturer said. He can also follow a subject from light to shadow, confident that the electric eye is accurately computing the light changes and automatically adjusting the lens.

An amber exposure beacon in the camera's view finder glows so long as the available illumination is adequate.

Like the human eye, which continually adapts to the brightness of its surroundings, the electric eye works continuously as long as light reaches the photocell. It "rests" only in darkness or when there is insufficient light for movie making. It never wears out or weakens under normal conditions.

Italian Sportswear Features Collars, Cuffs, Capes, Colors

By MARJORIE J. HARLEPP

FLORENCE, July 24 — That genius for enjoyment that makes Italians the world's best creators of amusing sportswear and boutique fashions was evident as the Florentine Italian fashion show opened in a spirit of high humor.

Some of the outstanding models were a black velvet hunting suit worn over a shirt of geranium pink, his new color, with tapered trousers buttoned from calf to ankle and a jacket sporting a pocket across the back; a gray flannel shooting coat, made without sleeves to leave the arms free; a full, whirling cape in yellow, borrowed from that of the sensale, or animal broker, a familiar and legendary Tuscan figure.

MOST SENSATIONAL

Most sensational, though not necessarily most likely to succeed, was Pucci's absolutely straight line, beltless dress in wool or printed cotton which may, however, be belted under the bosom or at the natural waistline for those who insist.

Mirsa, another Florence favorite, scored again with three suits of fine knitted wool in dulcet shades of yellow or turquoise ribbed with gray. Mirsa also gives knitted dresses a new dimension by introducing offside drapery and contrasting collar and cuffs.

Her sweater sets too have a new touch; patterned pullovers are teamed with cardigans made jacket-like by the addition of collars, brass buttons or borders matching the pattern of the pullovers.

SPIRITED

Among the spirited boutique fashions shown here were jewel-like stain prints handsomely tailored into hooded shirts, the hoods dipping into cowl collars in back and worn with sleek slacks or harem pants.

This house also showed velvet shirts and slacks in glowing shades of yellow and red, some with shirt sleeves billowing out in harlequin puffs. Waterproof poplin in vivid tints or mixed with bulky knits were another feature of the collection.

Myricae of Rome showed skirts of heavy wool, its authenticity attested to by the presence of a live lamb passed along from one courageous mannequin to another. A hand-loomed tartan skirt with a huge pocket and prints imitating old tapestry or embroidered in the manner of traditional Sardinian fabrics made other eye-catchers.

Falconetto of Milan showed sports clothes in cabbage rose brocades; Avagolf dedicated itself to silk jersey in a wide range of tints and styles. Vanita Di Valditevere of Florence offered charming gingham frocks made merry with paper doll cutouts of appliqued lace as one of the highlights of her collection.

MILLINERY

This designer also showed a provocative resort evening dress fashioned of layers of sea green tulle over taffeta, imprinted with fish and bubbles that gave the effect of an underwater scene as the model moved.

Millinery showings were distinguished by the radiant quality of felts designed by Familiare that featured shaded tones of copper or bronze. Most designs rode straight and tall though there was a group of clothes reminiscent of the '20s.

High spots included a felt toque designed to look like ermine and an emerald green evening beanie with a green face-conceling veil and bunch of feather flowers; black felt swathed in brown lace tied in a high chignon; a peasant print cloche shaped like a headscarf and a black and white checked number that resembled a Sicilian wedding hat or an ice bag depending on one's point of view.

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 club	Pass
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead, Queen of diamonds.

In an effort to build up tricks he did not really need, South put his opponents in a position to sink his ship in today's hand. They were quick to seize the opportunity.

The contract of four hearts was natural enough. When North raised South's second suit, the leap to game was clearly indicated.

West had no very attractive lead, and from the tone of the bidding it appeared that the adversaries were well on their way to score a game. In what appeared to be desperate circumstances, West considered that drastic measures were indicated and picked upon the queen of diamonds.

Declarer observed that he could promote dummy's ten and nine to winning rank and covered the queen. East won with the ace.

For a moment, East was in a dilemma. If South's jack were a false card, as well it might be, West's diamond would have been a singleton and a ruff would be available. East reasoned, however, that the diamond ruff would not be sufficient to defeat the contract and tried, instead, to find his partner with the ace of spades. The return of the queen of spades settled the issue, as the defense gathered in three tricks in that suit.

Declarer was inviting disaster when he covered the queen of diamonds. Building up the ten and nine was of no moment, for the one character declarer does not wish to have on lead is East. If West holds the opening lead, the contract is assured if hearts break 3-2. Declarer will score four hearts, five clubs, and eventually the ruff of a spade in dummy after three discards are taken on South's club suit.

True enough, East can circumvent South's play by overtaking West's queen and shifting to a spade, and there is some evidence upon which such action might be based, but it would be quite a play if East did so, and he should be made to work for his groceries.

KEEP WELL: Flies Spread Disease

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

The causative organisms are carried in the gastrointestinal tract and are deposited freely wherever the insect alights. In addition, the outside of the fly is contaminated. Several were captured in a slum area and each was found to harbor up to 3,683,000 bacteria on legs and body.

Forty-four per cent of the flies captured in the rooms of typhoid patients proved to be infected with the typhoid germ. The organisms remained alive for six days in the alimentary tract of the insects.

Other studies showed that the plague bacillus stayed alive eight days; the polio virus, for 48 hours, and the staphylococcus responsible for food poisoning, eight days.

A fly laden with undulant fever organisms is capable of transmitting the disease for periods up to 96 hours after paying one visit to the source of infection. The germs responsible for bacillary dysentery were isolated from three out of 38 flies captured at a dining room table and from seven out of 36 flies in a hospital ward.

DDT may kill the pest within 30 minutes but it is surprising how many microorganisms it can disseminate before it dies. Flies lead a migratory existence; they wander over an area of five square miles and leave their calling card every 4½ minutes along the way.

Can these pests transmit disease other than by direct contact? Yes. Flies take in food only in liquid state or in a finely divided suspension or emulsion. To facilitate matters, the insects liquefy dry food by regurgitating fluid. Through these shenanigans the housefly spreads infection.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions relating to health and hygiene in his column, and by mail when self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Letters should be addressed to Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, c/o The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta 2, Ga.

Elderly Find Eternal Life Begins Here

QUESTION: My father lived to be 88, and for almost 20 years was a great care. I find myself haunted by the thought that someday I may be a burden to my children. What can I do to shake off this fear?—J. M.

ANSWER: Sit down and make a list of people who at 80 are still making a contribution to the world. Include the names of Winston Churchill and Albert Schweitzer. They have kept their minds and hearts young by an eagerness for new knowledge and new opportunities for service. Some people are old at 50, for already they are looking for excuses to avoid responsibility. But others make their greatest contribution late in life.

I know a woman of 80 whose husband and children are already in heaven. She has a Sunday school class, and by teaching and example, leads many to Christ. A steady stream of people, young and old, come to her for advice. Her body is 80, but her mind and heart are young. She doesn't count the years for she knows the eternal life begins here on earth. She understands the meaning of the Bible verse: "But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day." (II Peter 3:8.)

You will lose all fear of growing old if you keep busy thinking of others, and plan for their comfort and happiness. Use today for Christ, and leave the future in God's hands.

Government Ups Price Of Frenchmen's Wine

PARIS, July 24 (UP)—The government this week raised the wholesale price of wine—still the daily table beverage of most French families. The price went up five francs a liter (about one and one-half cents a quart.) Retail prices will follow suit in about a week when dealers' present stocks are depleted.

Personalized Radio Giving TV Trouble

By PAUL JONES

Remember the gags the TV comics used to fracture the audiences with? One went something like this: "Radio? . . . What's that?"

Well, we have news for the TV comics. They're gone and radio is back—very strong, in fact.

These figures may come as a surprise to you, but, in June, more people in Georgia were tuned to WSB-Radio in one week than were turned to the largest TV station in this area.

Jones

Radio sets were in use in an average of 451,670 homes compared with TV sets in action in only 422,460 homes during a week tested by Nielsen ratings.

Radio, in fact, is meeting the competition of TV. It has become a personalized service—designed especially for you.

No longer is radio programming beamed at a group. Instead, music, weather reports and other public services now have an individualized touch. They do on WSB-Radio, anyway.

THIS PERSONALIZED broadcasting started, according to Elmo Ellis, WSB program director, when the TV sets ousted the radio receivers from the living room.

"Radio went into the bedroom, the bath, the kitchen, onto the patio, the beach, the picnic grounds. People started listening to radio, personally, rather than in groups."

Ellis says the music in the morning has "sunshine in it and it is designed for the people 'on the go'!" During the evening the tempo of the music changes and "the dark mood with the stars and the moon" becomes apparent in the music that is featured.

This music is interspersed throughout the day with bright features, tips on traffic hazards, weather, baseball scores and other information. Public service features such as the one which will help you to find the answer to almost any question, are offered throughout the day.

• • •

NIGHTBEAT, a regular five-times-a-week show, and Monitor, the big, fast-moving NBC Radio weekend feature, keep the listener occupied with interviews, human interest tidbits and music. Shows are designed for the thousands of people who take radio for a ride to and from work each day. Other shows are designed for the busy housewife.

Elmo Ellis

IN ITS QUEST for answers to listeners' questions, WSB-Radio recently had to call on Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook for the solution to this puzzler:

A woman called to inquire if she could sell her body—be paid for it in advance and deliver it when she died.

Selling of TV Time Tougher Than Ever

By JACK GOULD

NEW YORK, July 24—The television industry, which for 10 years has thought in terms of continuing boom, is experiencing the "softest" demand for air time that it has ever known.

Inflationary forces in the national economy, the spiraling costs of shows and changing conditions within the industry were held responsible for what a network official described as "the toughest selling season we have ever had."

Gould

In recent years, at least two of the coast-to-coast chains usually reported by late July that they had sold out their choice evening hours. Now, all three networks have substantial night-time programming periods available.

The Columbia Broadcasting System reported that it had available one and one-half hours weekly; the National Broadcasting Co., three hours, and the American Broadcasting Co., five and one-quarter hours.

"For this time of the year it is the greatest inventory of unsold evening hours that there's ever been," an executive observed.

Variety, weekly amusements publication, reported today that "the panic button is beginning to ring at the networks." Tonight there were reports that sponsors could obtain substantial discounts on some shows.

Some broadcasters feared that "the real big bite" might not come until Jan. 1, when the first 13-week period of the fall television season ends. If sales do not come up to the expectations of some sponsors who have the privilege of cancellation after 13 weeks, more shows may have to be resold or replaced.

Because of worry over which way their sales figures may move, some sponsors were said to be reluctant to agree in advance to finance an extended series of television films.

The significance of unsold evening time is that a weekly half-hour on a network's minimum number of required stations may involve $3,500,000 to $5,000,000 in time revenue over a full season. When 19 such periods are open, as at present, the industry is worrying about $65,500,000 to $95,000,000.

In network circles, it was noted that general inflationary forces explained in part the basic programming patterns for the coming season. Regular weekly shows will rely on "bread and butter" formats—family adventure, westerns and situation comedy — of relatively small expense.

This season, the American Broadcasting Co. is emerging as a stronger rival to CBS and NBC. Its rates for time also are lower and, as it gains additional stations in major marketing areas, it is intensifying the competition for the advertiser's dollar.

Traffic Group Will Discuss Plans To Widen North Avenue in August

Plans for the $800,000 widening of North avenue from the expressway to West Peachtree street are scheduled for consideration at the August meeting of the Atlanta-Fulton county joint bond commission on traffic improvements. Robert H. White, chairman, will set the date for the discussion, probably on Aug. 6. The project will be financed from the $26,540,000 traffic improvement bond fund voted last April. City bonds will pay the bill. City construction chief Ray Nixon said the roadway will be widened from 37½ feet at present to 72 feet under the plans.

Water Bond Validation Hearing Set

Proceedings to validate $1,050,000 worth of Fulton County water revenue bonds were filed Wednesday in Fulton Superior Court.

The validation petition was filed by Sol. Gen. Paul Webb after county commissioners Tuesday passed a resolution requesting him to do so.

A hearing was set by Judge Claude D. Shaw to determine if there is any reason why the bonds should not be validated. The hearing was set for 10 a.m. Aug. 9.

The petition said the bonds, which will bear 5 per cent interest, will pay for "the cost and acquisition and construction of facilities to furnish water to a portion of south Fulton County."

Issuance of the bonds will "in no way constitute a debt of defendant county nor pledge the faith and cerdit of said county," the petition explained. The county "has pledged all of the net revenues to be received from said facilities to pay the principal and interest" of the bonds.

The petition also said revenues have been pledged to provide for the maintenance and improvement of the water system during the 30-year life of the bonds.

The bond will be retired by revenues from tapping fees, monthly surcharges on bills of users and from property assessments.

A Rhyme a Day

"Often overlooked by the critics of government spending, is the plain fact that everything from pins to Pentagons has advanced in price."—Political column quote.

If you can save and not grow weary of it . . . if you can put a little cash aside . . . to have and hold, and yet refuse to love it . . . nor speak of it with boasting or with pride.

If, when you spend, you're careful with your spending . . . and look for bargains in the thing you buy . . . if, while the other boys are "elbow-bending" . . . you're sober when the rest are getting "high."

If you can see a relative or neighbor . . . come driving home in some late-model car . . . when your old crate is weary of its labor . . . as many of the older models are.

If you can do all these and, in addition . . . don't growl about the midnight oil you've burned . . . the government will be in a position . . . to pay its bills with all you've saved and earned.

If you can take all you have saved and dump it . . . in some rat hole, yet have no word to say . . . you may not "like it but you have to lump it" . . . Because you have to do it anyway.

Elbert's Sen. Hawes Heads Unit Studying Mental Health

Sen. Peyton Hawes of Elberton was elected chairman Wednesday of a legislative committee studying the problems of mental health in Georgia.

The committee scheduled its first two meetings for next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Milledgeville State Hospital.

Hawes said the committee will make a report on the feasibility of setting up out-patient clinics and screening centers in several locations in the state.

He said experts estimate 75 per cent of all persons in mental institutions today could be restored to normal life if proper facilities were available.

The committee picked Rep. Artie Rogers of Heard County as vice chairman and Rep. Dallas Veal of Putnam County secretary.

Progress Is Pete's Motto

Outlar

"We're trying to satisfy two people right now," Chemeres said in the dressing room. "Pete and me. I don't want to bring him along too fast. So far I've been interested in getting him in shape. Getting those legs ready. And after 24 days, he's in shape. Still weighs 210, but there's not an ounce of fat on him. I'm satisfied with his progress so far."

Do you actually think that amateur Rademacher has a chance to beat heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, if they fight in Seattle?

Chemeres took the question on the chin, stroked his graying black hair and said, "He's got just as good a chance as any fighter in the heavyweight division right now."

Rademacher and company were in Atlanta as guests of Warden Fred Wilkinson, an avid fight fan and a friend of a decade. Wilkinson, then warden at McNeil Island, first met Pete when he was fighting around Seattle. Wilkinson, also a friend of promoter Jack Hurley and Chemeres, invited Rademacher to stage an exhibition at the penitentiary here, and Pete accepted.

—A Mixture of Speed, Power and Polish

Observers got a kick out of seeing Rademacher in action, but they reserved their loudest ovation for Ray Tucker, a one-time pro who is now a member of the Fed boxing team. Tucker went a couple of rounds with the smooth-boxing Hinnant, and you could hear leather popping.

Warden Wilkinson, a former amateur boxer, thinks Rademacher has improved considerably since he first saw him several years ago.

"He handles himself well for a big man," Wilkinson said, as he watched Pete maneuver around the ring. "He's rugged and throws a good punch, and in the heavyweight division a man with a good punch always has some chance."

Before climbing through the ropes, Rademacher was chatting with guard Frank Hartley, a fellow boxing coach at Ft. Benning during their service days.

Hartley, who has seen Rademacher fight on several occasions, thinks Chemeres has improved Pete's style. And he says Pete has the punch to put anyone away, provided he can land it.

Rademacher himself is satisfied with results of his training schedule thus far. Perspiration dripped from his forehead as he sat in the dressing room looking the picture of health.

"I'm more than pleased with the way things have gone thus far," Pete said. "I'm in good shape and in good hands. Chemeres has helped me lots. The speed is there, and the power is there, and we're doing some polishing."

RADEMACHER (R) SMILES WITH AN OLD FRIEND

Pete, Joe Gannon (L) Pose With Warden Fred Wilkinson

Rademacher's outlook on the fight is still much the same as it was when I talked with him almost four weeks ago. He thinks he has the style to take Patterson.

—He'll Scout Patterson From a Parlor Chair

He enjoyed Rocky Marciano's visit to his camp this week. "He gave me a few pointers and lots of encouragement," Pete said. "It was a pleasure to have Rocky with us. You don't meet a better fellow."

At first Rademacher had planned to view the bout between Floyd Patterson and Hurricane Jackson from ringside at the Polo Grounds. Now he'll watch it on TV.

He'll be an interested observer for two reasons. His future will be riding on each punch, for a Jackson victory automatically rubs out his contract with Patterson. And, of course, he'll have a keen eye peeled on Patterson's performance.

"I decided not to go to New York for the fight, because I'd miss two days of training, and I can see it on TV. Then, too, we'll probably be able to get the films of the fight."

Chemeres pointed out that Rademacher wouldn't be able to learn much from watching Patterson fight a guy like Jackson. The Hurricane doesn't have any style. He just throws punches, and Patterson will adjust his style accordingly.

Rademacher reported that there's still a chance that TV will purchase rights to his bout with Patterson, if Floyd whips Jackson. "We think there'll be a public demand for TV," he explained. "What about the NBA? Well, they haven't had much to say lately. And I'll bet you that Julius Helfand will be there at ringside if the bout goes on."

"Well, Patterson will be out. He has a rematch clause with Jackson. I don't know. We'll just have to back up and start over."

I mentioned the fact that he has become something of a celebrity in Georgia without throwing a professional punch. "If I beat Patterson, I'd like to fight in Georgia. Maybe in Atlanta. It would be nice to see boxing revived in the state."

Rest assured it will be revived, IF Pete beats Patterson.

Throw from Minnie Minoso to Nellie Fox Was Too Late in First Inning

Chisox Dump Yanks For Pierce's 14th

Bronx Defense Falls, 7-2; Minoso Out With Lame Leg

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox drubbed the New York Yankees today, 7-2, as Billy Pierce won his 14th victory and reduced the Yankees' lead over the Sox to 4½ games.

Luis Aparicio led the White Sox attack with three singles and a triple as the Yankee defense cracked wide open.

In the first, Gerry Coleman let Aparicio's grounder go through his legs and two runs scored. In the fifth Mickey Mantle misjudged Aparicio's drive to deep center. The ball went over his head for a triple. In the eighth Earl Torgeson stole second and went to third on Yogi Berra's bad throw and later scored.

Two walks and a single by Gil McDougald in the fifth gave the Yankees their first score and Berra homered in the eighth for the other run.

The White Sox opened up on Whitey Ford, Yankee starter, in the first. Nellie Fox beat out a roller, Torgeson and Minoso walked, and Fox scored on Larry Doby's grounder. Then came Coleman's error scoring Torgeson and Minoso.

Aparicio Cuts Yanks and Ump Returns 'Favor'

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—Luis Aparicio, hitting star in the Chicago White Sox's 7-2 victory over the New York Yankees today, now knows that an umpire can hurt a player in more ways than calling a decision on a play.

The White Sox's rookie shortstop received four spike wounds on his right wrist when he made an unsuccessful attempt to steal third in the eighth inning. The wounds came from the spikes of Bill McKinley, third base umpire, as Aparicio slid into the bag.

Nottebart's 2-0 Gem Ensures Cracker Split

By AL THOMY
Constitution Sports Writer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 24—The best pitcher in the Southern Assn. is not George Brunet of Little Rock, nor is it Gary Bell of Mobile, nor is it Bob Kelly of Nashville. Currently, the best of the rest is Don Nottebart of Atlanta.

Nottebart Wednesday night extended his runless streak to 29 innings as he goose-egged Little Rock, 2-0, in the second game of a double-header before 1,101 of the Traveler faithful. The Travelers' Harry Taylor, just a month out of the University of Texas, shut out the Crackers, 1-0, on Les Peden's 12th home run in the short first game.

The split here, which gave the Crackers a 2-1 edge in the final series at Traveler's Field, did no worse than drop Buddy Bates' men into a first place deadlock with Nashville, which was victorious in Mobile.

There was a runless story in reverse in the second game, Brunet, the left-hander once called the finest prospect in the league, has begun to think of taking his teammates to court for non-support. They haven't gotten a run for him in 48 and a third innings, dating back to June 21, when he beat the Crackers, 5-3. He was 10-3 at that time. He's 10-10 today.

Nottebart permitted seven base knocks, but kept them well spaced. Not a single Traveler, hitch-hiking on otherwise, reached second base until the ninth, and then he worked out of it with nifty aid from shortstop Joe Morgan.

He fell behind, 2-0, in the fifth when Dick Phillips rode a first-pitch fastball over the right-field fence for his 14th home run of the season. The Crackers threatened mildly several times thereafter, but Brunet called on his best pitches to quell such uprisings.

Nottebart, who picked up victory No. 13, rocked along smoothly until the eighth. Jerry Streeter singled with one out, but R. C. Otey skied, and Bob Montag made a nice catch on Al Grunwald's long smash to center.

Ben Downs opened the seventh with a hit, but he was forced at second on the first of Morgan's great fielding plays. Bill Kern hit a sizzler off Phillips' glove at third, and Morgan took the bank shot and threw to second.

Peden, the big catcher who has hit six of his 12 home runs off Cracker pitching, beat out a pinch single in the eighth, but mighty Eric Rodin was coaxed into a double-play ball.

Nottebart had only three whiffs, but he had the Travs hitting his slider and fastball into the dirt, or straight up.

Foytack Bat Gets Hurler 2-1 Victory

Loes Loses in Bid For Seventh in Row

BALTIMORE, July 24 (AP)—Pitcher Paul Foytack of the Detroit Tigers took the bat in his own hands tonight to break a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning and go on to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 5-1 on four hits.

After Foytack showed them the way by singling home catcher Frank House, the Tigers went on to score three more runs before Billy Loes was able to get them out. This finished Loes and was the first time he had failed to finish and win a game in six at home this season. It was his fifth loss against 10 victories.

Foytack's 11th victory against nine setbacks missed being a shut out in the third inning when Brooks Robinson, recently recalled rookie third baseman, doubled home Jim Busby who got two of the Oriole hits.

The Tigers got even in the fourth with reverse medicine. Reno Bertoia doubling and Charlie Maxwell driving him across with the first of his three straight singles.

PETE RADEMACHER (L) SWAPS LEFTS WITH SPAR MATE JOE GANNON

Goes 4 Rounds In Hot Sun

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM

Warden Fred Wilkinson strolled up to the freely perspiring Olympic heavyweight champion Wednesday and said, "Thanks, Pete, you've just acquired 2,700 more rooters."

That summarizes Pete Rademacher's four-round sparring session with Joe Gannon and Clarence Hinnant at Atlanta's Federal Penitentiary. Expressions on the faces of the appreciative audience more than compensated for the adverse training effects of a broiling afternoon sun.

Rademacher went two rounds each with Gannon and Hinnant, then retired to the dressing room while Hinnant and resident Ray Tucker livened things up with two more fast, three-minute sessions. Tucker was good.

Trainer George Chemeres said in the dressing room that "I told Pete not to exert himself but to give the fans a good show. You know, there's nothing worse on a fighter in training than working out in direct sunlight."

"Rocky told me to carry my hands higher and that's about all," Pete said. "Of course, he gave me encouragement and told me to keep plugging."

Enter Joe Gannon, the assistant trainer-sparring partner combination who knows more about Patterson than anyone else in the Rademacher camp. The ex-Washington, D.C., cop dropped a split decision to the heavyweight champion in 1954.

"The major reason I became interested in this fight is that I know Patterson can be had. I hurt Patterson several times in our fight, and Pete is bigger, stronger and has a better right hand than I have. That's why I think Pete has a chance," Gannon reported.

Fear of Patterson is not evident in the Rademacher troupe. Listen to Hinnant, the other sparring mate, who is Ring Magazine's ninth-best light heavyweight.

"This guy Patterson, he ain't so hot. I try to fight him in 1953 and they chickened out. I's only a middleweight then and they wuz all set to match us in the (Madison Square) Garden when he backed out.

"I trained in the same gym with him and tried to get in the ring with him then. But still they wouldn't let me. They sez my hands too fast."

Rademacher boxes Saturday at Augusta's Ft. Gordon, then retires to his Lake Huston training base for the remainder of his stay in Georgia before the Aug. 22 fight at Seattle. He plans to leave for the West Coast about 9 or 10 days before the match, depending, Chemeres says, on the outcome of the Patterson-Hurricane Jackson battle Monday night at the Polo Grounds.

All Outdoors

IT'S TIME TO GIVE A HOOT ABOUT OWLS—AND HAWKS

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

Here is an encouraging note for some of the more discerning outdoorsmen, as well as for bird students everywhere: at its last meeting, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission passed a regulation placing all hawks and owls in the Sunshine state on the protected list, making it just as illegal to kill one of the predators as to blast a dove or dück out of season, or knock over a flamingo or mocking bird.

Charles Elliott

More states could follow Florida's example. Both hawks and owls are much more beneficial than harmful to the interests of man. These predatory birds have an unsavory reputation, especially in rural areas, because every time one of them happens to fly over a farm, all the chickens take off squawking for cover, and grandpa goes a-runnin' for his trusty smooth-bore.

For years, ornithologists, biologists and even the farm experts, have been studying the food habits of hawks. From stomach contents of collected birds, droppings around the nests and observation, they have learned that a very large percentage of a hawk's diet is made up of rats and mice. Some of the faster-flying species as the blue darter and sharp-shinned hawks, do prey on small birds, game birds and even chickens when they can catch one far enough off base. But for every quail and chicken the farmer gives up, the hawks save him hundreds of dollars in grain, eggs, vegetables and even the lumber in his barn, that a saber-toothed rat can chew into splinters.

Owls are in the same bracket. They forage largely at night. Most birds sleep then, but rodents are abroad and provide the bulk of an owl's diet. About the only enemy a skunk has, is the great horned owl. He seems to prefer this choice (to him) delicacy. Every horned owl's nest I've seen is fragrant with the odor of perfumed pussycat. Since the skunk's taste buds are set for quail eggs, young quail and even grown bobs and hens when he can catch them, the great horned owl is the best ally a quail hunter has in the woods.

Some of our south Georgia plantations, where quail and wild turkeys are the chief crops, depend on hawks and owls to help them keep their game populations high. They have found out from long—and in many cases, sad—experience, that without these predatory birds around, the quail populations rapidly go downhill.

One such plantation I know set out to destroy every creature on the place that they considered might threaten the quail crop in any way. After an intensive campaign, in which all predators which could be ferreted out, bit the dust, their bobwhite covies practically disappeared also. A second check turned up the alarming fact that field rats and mice were overrunning the place, eating eggs, chicks and even taking a toll of older birds on the roost. When they allowed the hawks and owls and other predators to increase again, the quail increased with them.

Nature has a very delicate balance of her creatures. She maintains one kind to keep other kinds in check. When man puts in his clumsy two cents' worth and upsets that balance, many creatures of the wild suffer.

The Florida Game Commission will no doubt hear some bitter denunciations of the action they have just taken to protect the large predatory birds in the state, but it is one of the most far-sighted and intelligent moves they have made to help their game supply.

Sanford Five-Hitter Derails Braves, 3-1

Philly Ace Notches No. 13 As League-Leaders Stumble

MILWAUKEE, July 24 (AP)—Rookie right-hander Jack Sanford of Philadelphia held Milwaukee to two walks, four singles and Wes Covington's homer, taking his 13th victory of the season as the Phillies beat the league-leading Braves, 3-1, tonight.

The victory, the second for the Phillies in their last nine games, enabled the team to pull within 3½ games of the league-leading Braves, who maintained their one-game lead over second - place Brooklyn, which lost to St. Louis, 3-0, tonight.

Sanford had a part in two of the Phillies' three runs, all scored by batters who had been walked, two by loser Gene Conley and one by Don McMahon, who hurled the ninth inning for Milwaukee.

Larry Jackson Deals Bums Three-Hitter

Cards Blank Dodgers, 3-0, Beating Aging Sal Maglie

ST. LOUIS, July 24 (AP)—Larry Jackson shutout the Brooklyn Dodgers, his favorite victims, in a masterful three-hitter tonight, 3-0, pulling the St. Louis Cardinals within a half game of second place.

It was Jackson's fifth straight victory over Brooklyn and seventh of his career against only two defeats. His career major league record now is 22-21. He has never lost to the Dodgers in St. Louis in four decisions.

The victory evened a two-game series and was the second straight brilliant pitching duel. Last night Johnny Podres shut out the Cards 1-0 on five hits and the Dodgers made only three hits off Sad Sam Jones.

Alvin Dark slammed two triples and Stan Musial two singles to lead the St. Louis attack.

Cubs' Elston Nips Giants' Antonelli

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, who had lost 22 of their first 33 games at Wrigley Field, made it two in a row against the New York Giants on a 2-1 victory today.

What proved the winning run came in the fifth when third baseman Bobby Adams opened with a double. Bob Speake and Moryn drew passes to load the bases against Johnny Antonelli, who suffered his 10th loss, before Adams scored on Bolger's sacrifice lift.

DON NOTTEBART
Another Shutout

Right-hander Corky Valentine dropped a heartbreaker to rookie Taylor in the seven-inning opener. Both pitchers gave up four hits, but one of the Travs' was Peden's drive over right-center.

The Crackers had snuffed a great chance to go ahead in the top of the sixth. Morgan drew a free pass, but was cut down attempting to steal. Joyner then doubled to center. Rose took the aggressiveness out of a threat when he separed Frank DiPrima's red-hot line drive down the third base line. Sammy Taylor bounced out to second for the third out.

This was only the fourth series the Travs have lot at home all season.

CRACKER DIARY: This was Jacksonville (Ark.) Community Night at Travelers Field, and lovely Miss Hospitality, Susie Hill, of that town threw out the first pitch. . . . Slugger Eric Rodin, who pulled up lame at first on Monday, was held out of the starting line-up for both games. . . . BETTER FIELDING BUREAU: Third baseman Russ Rose's diving catch of Frank DiPrima's line drive in sixth inning of the first game. It cut down Cracker threat. . . . When Manager Buddy Bates shuffled his line-up for the second game, he moved Joe Morgan to fifth to get punch into the attack. It was the first timee Morgan hadn't led off since May 28, when Chick King was the No. 1 man. DiPrima was moved up into the lead-off post. . . . Hits down the line in the Southern Assn. seem to have become a guessing contest. Morgan lost a double when Umpire Ed Ohlinger called his line shot into left a foul ball in the second round of the nine-inning game. The ball hit right on the line.

Bates' new-look lineup did well in the second game. Morgan had an RBI, and Dick Phillips another. Lead-off man DiPrima walked twice, and clean-up hitter Guettler played the role with a double which was turned into a run.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 24—The Neely brothers of Atlanta reached the quarter-finals of the Western Junior and Boys' Tennis Championships here today but face tough going Thursday when each faces the top-seeded player in his age group.

In doubles play, Ned had to default when his partner, Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, sprained his ankle in singles play. Mike, though, teamed with Frank Frohling of Coral Gables, Fla., to reach the quarter-finals. They

Pro Football Wants No Pay TV, Farms

Bert Bell Is Kickoff Witness Before Congressional Group

From Press Dispatches

Bell said free home TV has helped popularize the sport and pro football chooses "to go on our own" without minor league affiliations.

BROOKLYN, July 24 (AP)—The Jacksonville, Fla., Journal today quoted Emil "Buzzie" Bavasi, vice president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, as saying the Brooklyn baseball club would move to Los Angeles for the 1958 season.

But Bavasi said in Brooklyn the Journal sports editor, Jack Hairston, had "jumped to conclusions," and he merely had said "it looks as if we are not wanted in New York or Brooklyn." Hairston interviewed Bavasi at Jacksonville late yesterday.

In Manhattan a spokesman for Mayor Robert Wagner said: "The city is doing everything possible to see if something can be done to keep them here but evidently they don't want to stay, so let them go."

Both the Dodgers and New York Giants have received permission from the National League to move to California in 1958. Last week Giant President Horace Stoneham told a congressional committee the Giants probably would not play in the Polo Grounds next year.

No Dodger official has said so far when the club might go West. President Walter O'Malley has indicated frequently during the past two years the move would be made unless Brooklyn can provide a modern ball park to replace Ebbetts Field.

Today's statement added to the confusion that has surrounded two years of negotiations.

Bavasi said: "I did not say the Dodgers are moving to Los Angeles next season. I did not say that because I do not know it to be true.

"What I replied to Hairston's question about moving was 'one month ago I would have said we are staying but now it looks as if we are not wanted in New York or Brooklyn.'"

Hairston quoted the Dodger official as saying: "The only reason we're going is because we can't get land for a new stadium. We would build the stadium if they would get us the land, but the city fathers are not going to do that. They are no longer attempting to woo us into staying.

"The TV deal is not the big thing. We could get just as lucrative a TV contract in Brooklyn as in Los Angeles."

The New York-born mayor of Hayward, Calif., a San Francisco suburb, was in New York in an effort to get the Giants to move to Hayward instead of San Francisco.

Mayor John Purchiom said Hayward is more accessible to a population of more than 3,000,000 in the bay area and a real estate firm there is ready to build a 90,000-seat stadium for the Giants.

COBB, CALDWELL TALK ON SCHOLARSHIP PLAN

Georgia's Ty Cobb, winging his way to New York and Saturday's Old Timers game between ex-Yankee and Detroit greats, took time out in Atlanta Wednesday to boost his college scholarship program and complete plans for his permanent return to his native state.

Cobb met with Dr. Harmon Caldwell, chancellor of the University System of Georgia, to discuss arrangements on his program providing scholastic scholarships to high school youngsters. His plans call for another day in Royston to confer with architects designing his new home there.

"I'll work with the architect Thursday, then fly to New York Friday for the Old Timers game," the all-time hitting great said "After a short visit in Royston next week I'll return to California to complete transfer of my belongings to Royston."

Cobb said he plans to return to Royston permamently some time early in September, after entertaining friends at his Lake Tahoe, Nev., summer home during August.

Posts 65, 216 Score Wins In AL Meet

Brookhaven Post 65 and Mickey Cochran Post 216 made some last-minute scoring thrusts Wednesday to salvage some uphill battles in the Fifth District American Legion Junior baseball tourney at College Park.

Brookhaven, Tuesday losers nearing the brink of defeat in the double elimination affair, put together five runs in the eighth inning on seven walks, a single and Ben Ferguson's two-run homer. It sent Decatur Post 66 down to a 5-2 defeat.

Vols Reclaim Share Of Southern Lead

Bob Kelly Posts 18th Win With Three-Hit Shutout

By the Associated Press

Bob Kelly, the Southern Association's winningest hurler, copped his 18th victory and put Nashville back in a tie with Atlanta for first place Wednesday night. He spun a three-hitter, fanned eight and walked none in outduelling Mobile's Bill Dailey, 2-0.

Billy Harrington tossed an 11-inning five-hitter to best Memphis' Al Lary for Birmingham, 2-1, in the first game of a twin bill. But the Chicks won the second game, 6-1, on Glenn Hobbie's seven-hitter.

Chattanooga scored twice in the ninth inning to hand New Orleans its seventh straight defeat, 6-5. Vern Morgan's two-out double in the ninth started the winning rally. Three singles followed.

Stan Palys increased his league-leading home run total to 19 for the Vols' first run in the fourth. George Schmees' double and Tommy Brown's single accounted for the other one in the ninth.

Confederates Romp, Grab Ruth Crown

When a team averages 11.5 runs a game and its hurlers limit opponents to an average three hits, that's winning baseball. And that's exactly the record compiled by the DeKalb Confederates in annexing the District Three Babe Ruth championship this week at McKoy Field.

The Confederates, who blasted West Georgia, 12-0, Tuesday night, turned their base-hit artillery loose on the DeKalb Rebels Wednesday night, and the scoreboard read 11-3 when the smoke had cleared.

Like hillmate Jimmy McLelland Tuesday night, Confederate Peppy Johnson held the Rebels to only three hits. The 5-11, 162-pounder struck out eight and walked six.

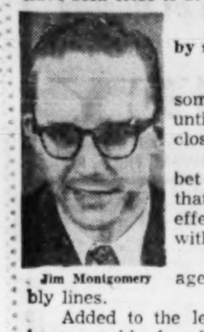
Another Billion Bet On Leaf vs. Cancer

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Visiting a tobacco warehouse in Georgia at this time of year, it's hard not to be mystified and impressed by the confusing ritual of winks, chants, nods and thumb-twitching that is a part of the flue-cured bright leaf sale.

But by the time the uninterrupted singsong delivery of the auctioneer comes to a halt in mid-August, Georgia farmers will have sold close to 100 million pounds of this delicate plant.



Jim Montgomery

Industry buyers will repeat this ritual in some 800 other warehouses in 20 other states until they have multiplied this investment by close to 20 times.

And America's tobacco industry will have bet another billion dollars against the possibility that someone may establish an irrefutable cause-effect relationship between smoking and cancer within the next two to four years.

That's how long this year's crop will be aged before it moves down the cigaret assembly lines.

Added to the leaf already in storage, the new tobacco will keep roughly four-fifths of the total physical assets of the six major companies—about two billion dollars—out of use.

The timid have already dropped out, and the equally inscrutable remaining adversary drew but a single card.

The pro, playing for keeps, stood pat.

His opponent thinks he's bluffing and tries to call his hand, but each time the pro calmly meets and raises the bet, all the time pondering the mathematical chances of that single card filling out a royal flush.

60 Million Users —$5 Billion

Some 60 million Americans paid roughly five billion dollars—or as much as the entire national budget of Canada—for various tobacco products.

Four-fifths of this outlay was for 369 billion cigarets, and the rest for cigars, pipe tobacco, chewing tobacco and snuff.

$2 Billion Taxes Imposed

Federal and state governments, moaned an unhappy industry voice, "interposed the open palm between maker and smoker and extracted . . . taxes of over two billion dollars—almost double the entire amount of cash received by farmers for the leaf crop."

The share that did go to the farmer was divided among more than 800,000 families who cultivated more than 1,650,000 acres of land that yielded 2,230,000,000 pounds of 28 types of tobacco.

Thus, America's "fifth most lucrative crop" provides but a meager per capita cash harvest for its growers.

Living Cost Has Slight Rise Here

By BOB WILLIMON

Atlanta's cost-of-living index rose one-half of 1 per cent during 1957's second quarter.

It was the fifth consecutive rise in as many quarters. The index, known officially as the Consumer Price Index, reached a new level of 121.2 (1947-49 equals 100.)

Higher prices for food, television sets and motion picture admissions were chiefly to blame for the rise, according to the Labor department report issued Wednesday. Boosts in these brackets more than offset retail cost declines in the fields of apparel and transportation.

FOOD INCREASE

Food prices, currently 2.2 per cent higher than a year ago, rose 1.7 per cent during the period. Most of the rise occurred during June as a result of higher prices for pork chops, bacon, chickens, lettuce, frankfurters and ham.

The reading and recreation category, which embraces movies and television, advanced 1.2 per cent (to 2.5 per cent above the year-ago figure) despite lower prices for sporting goods and toys.

Also up were housing costs, two-tenths of 1 per cent; medical care, a like amount; personal care, four-tenths of 1 per cent, and other goods and services, an identical amount.

TRANSPORTATION DOWN

Lower prices for gasoline, new cars and automobile tires reduced transportation costs by 1.3 per cent during the quarter. This group, however, was 7.6 per cent above the like period last year—highest rise of any major bracket.

Apparel prices dropped four-tenths of 1 per cent as lower prices for rayon dresses, cotton blouses and men's rayon suits more than offset higher prices for nylon hose and shoes. The group wound up 1.4 per cent ahead of a year ago.

Among items undergoing price increases: Beer and whisky, toilet soap and face cream, house furnishings and residential rents, optometrist fees and milk of magnesia.

Japan Will Reduce Present Cotton Purchases 25 Per Cent

TOKYO, July 24 (AP)—Japan, a major buyer in world cotton markets, Wednesday disclosed plans to cut its present purchases 25 per cent.

The Ministry of International Trade and Industry informed the cotton industry it plans to reduce the planned 1,200,000-bale import of raw cotton to 910,000 bales for the six months from last April through September.

The step, apparently prompted by Japan's weakening foreign exchange balances and the government's new tighter import policy, brought talk of a corresponding cut in cotton textile production.

The Tokyo stock market hit a 13-month low Wednesday. This was believed only partly the result of the cotton development.

Japan had planned to buy more than 2½ million bales of cotton during its fiscal year beginning last April 1, about one-third of it from the United States. Japan is considered America's best raw cotton customer, as well as its toughest competitor in cotton textiles.

The trade ministry will carry out the import cutback by reducing the amount of foreign exchange allotted Japanese traders for buying raw cotton.

In addition to the 290,000-bale reduction for April-September, the ministry was reported planning to trim a planned export of 1,400,000 bales to one million bales for the following six months.

Newspapers said government officials believe the cotton industry should cut its yarn output 27 per cent from a recent monthly production of 244,000 bales down to 190,000 bales.

Corporations Boost Dividend Payments

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP). The Commerce Department today reported an increase in June in cash dividend payments by corporations issuing public reports. They totaled $1,679,000,000, up 3½ per cent from June, 1956.

The department said the increase was about in line with the over-all gain reported for the first half of 1957 over the same period last year.

Most of the increase in dividend payments occurred in the manufacturing industries. The total year-to-year rise for manufacturing corporations was 5 per cent, with advances of 7 to 10 per cent reported in the oil refining, chemicals, and iron and steel industries.

70 Pct. Share For Supermarts?

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—Big supermarkets, numbering 25,000 and comprising only 10 per cent of all grocery stores, will do 70 per cent of the nation's grocery business by 1960, Charles G. Mortimer, president of General Foods Corp., said today.

Addressing the annual meeting of General Foods Corp. stockholders, Mortimer said significant developments in the sale and distribution of grocery products have radically changed the climate in which grocery manufacturers operate today.

"The number of outlets through which products are distributed is declining. At the same time, an ever-increasing volume of business is handled through the fewer but much larger supermarkets," he said.

Car Lease To Rails by U.S. Asked

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—President James M. Symes of the Pennsylvania Railroad, speaking for 34 major Eastern rail carriers, today proposed that Congress create a self-supporting federal agency to lease the rail industry much-needed new rolling equipment.

Symes advanced the idea before the House Interstate Commerce Committee. He had been called to testify on pending bills which would empower the Interstate Commerce Commission to impose a form of fine on railroads, which unduly detain freight cars belonging to another company.

Symes said the proposed legislation was not the answer to the recurring problem of car shortages.

$500 MILLION AGENCY

He then told the committee all of the major Eastern railroads feel the real answer would be a federal "railway equipment agency," with initial capital of 500 million dollars and with the authority to borrow four times that amount. He said railroads needing new equipment and confronted with high interest rates in the private money markets could certify their needs to the agency, which would have the equipment built and lease it to the railroads at an appropriate interest which would include one-fourth of 1 per cent to cover the agency's administrative costs.

Symes, who later detailed the idea at a news conference, called the project "rail cars for progress and defense plan" and said it would be "a first step to avoid government ownership" of the railroad industry.

SOLONS FAVORABLE

At the House committee session, a number of the dozen members present, said the idea should certainly be studied by Congress.

Symes testified that low railroad earnings have practically eliminated any chance for equity financing in the industry and that issuance of equipment trust certificates at high interest rates to get new needed equipment "is what is holding back railroad purchases" in this field.

GM Shows Rising Sales, But Profits Are Plunging

Total dollar sales of the giant auto builder amounted to $5,914,000,000—a gain of not quite eight-tenths of 1 per cent over the $5,869,000,000 reported for the first six months of 1956.

United sales of GM cars and trucks produced in the United States, however, were down 11 per cent from a year ago. These include Cadillac, Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Chevrolet models.

GM's net profit for the first six months totaled 481 million dollars, down 4.4 per cent from the 503 millions earned in the first half last year.

FEWER CARS, TRUCKS

The company declined to say why it earned less at a time when total sales were rising. It did point out that GM's U.S. plants sold only 89 per cent as many cars and trucks in the first six months as they did a year ago. Increased sales of diesel locomotives and other non-automotive products took up the slack, but passenger cars are considered the top money-maker.

GM's six months' earnings were equal to $1.71 a share, against $1.80 a share at the same time last year.

Spectacular increases were reported earlier this week by GM's nearest automotive competitor, Ford. For the first six months this year Ford announced a 30 per cent jump in earnings (from $131,700,000 a year ago to $171,000,000) and a 27 per cent boost in sales.

Chrysler, third and smallest member of motordom's Big Three, has not yet announced its six months' figures.

For the April-June quarter, GM reported a net profit of $220,000,000 or 78 cents a share. This compared with $221,000,000 or 79 cents a share in the same quarter last year. Sales for the recent quarter totaled $2,837,000,000 vs. $2,804,000,000 a year earlier.

Sales for the first six months were higher than in any first half year except 1955, when dollar value of GM products sold added up to a whopping total of $6,513,000,000.

TAXES, PAYROLLS

Other highlights of GM's mid-year report:

The company's tax bill for the first half included 516 million dollars for U.S. and foreign income taxes. Employment at GM plants, offices, warehouses and laboratories around the world averaged 598,652 and payrolls totaled $1,455,000,000.

In the United States, GM employment fell to an average of 363,132 in the fifth half from 392,106 a year ago. In the second quarter, average employment dipped to 339,056 from the year-earlier total of 363,073.

$97 WEEKLY

GM wage earners in the United States worked an average of 38 hours a week during the first half. Their weekly pay averaged $97.

Sales of GM cars and trucks produced in the United States slid from 1,983,720 units in the first six months last year to 1,763,836 in the first half of 1957.

Late Dealings Raise Cotton

A recovery in late dealings, due to technical considerations, eliminated initial declines which extended to around 75 cents a bale. The market averaged lower the early part of the week in response to better crop and weather news. Most selling centered in nearby deliveries. As in previous sessions of the current week, pressure was mainly attributed to spot houses. Dealers also noted increased volume of hedges. This selling was associated with the picking of cotton in the Rio Grande Valley.

Market Sales Dip To 4-Month Low

Steels Move Smartly Ahead After Rails Fight Up Scale

Turnover fell to 1,750,000 shares compared with 1,840,000 yesterday and was the lowest since April 1.

Rails once again scrambled ahead to make up partially for their consistent lag behind the industrials. There is hope in the industry, too, that a freight rate boost will be forthcoming.

The steels went forward smartly after rails began their advance. Bethlehem Steel makes its half-yearly report tomorrow and U.S. Steel next Tuesday. Record six months' earnings by Youngstown Sheet and Republican Steel apparently boosted investment sentiment.

But the market as a whole did not respond to certain bullish news items. One was the rise in the cost of living for the tenth straight month to a record high, bringing with it automatic pay boosts for some 650,000 workers. Another was the statement by Commerce Secretary Weeks who said indications were for a record year although the economy looks "spotty" now.

On the American Stock Exchange prices were mixed. Volume totaled 810,000 shares compared with 840,000 yesterday. Pacific Petroleum and Glen Alden rose. Woodley Petroleum, Mead Johnson and Mesabi Iron fell.

Hedging Hits Wheat, Rye

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—Hedging and selling influenced by good crop weather pushed wheat and rye futures prices downward in an irregular trading session on the Board of Trade today.

Buying of September soybeans was influenced by the belief that a government report on stocks of soybeans in all positions as of July 1 would be smaller than had been expected.

The report, released after the close of the market, confirmed this belief. The government reported soybean stocks totaled 87,251,000 bushels compared with 216,907,000 bushels three months ago and 64,275,000 a year ago.

The Agriculture department report showed stocks of wheat in all position totaled 905,240,000 bushels on July 1 compared with an April 1 stock of 1,187,791,000 bushels.
